CONGRESS HEARS PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL MESSAGE

BLAST RUINS TRESTLE AT FILL NEAR JUNCTION

Damage Of $5,000 Is Caused By Explosion On Monday Evening

Persons Responsible For Damage Are Unknown At Present

Damage estimated at $5,000 was done and many homes in the city were affected by the explosion last night about 8:30 o'clock of probably 50 sticks of dynamite at a trestle of the Shenango Valley Improvement Company, near New Castle Junction, by an unknown person or persons.

The trestle, used for the purpose of unloading of cars of slag on the river bottom lands at New Castle Junction and along the Beaver river, was destroyed, some cars on it scattered about and a hole made in the fill. No person was injured as far as is known.

Although the trestle is located from a quarter to a half mile from the office and restaurant buildings of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at New Castle Junction, windows in these buildings were broken by the concussion caused by the explosion. The P. & L. E. station in the vicinity was undamaged.

The concussion following the explosion was felt in all parts of the city, principally in the east side and seventh ward districts. Police officers were detailed and hunted for some time until the cause was finally determined. Many calls from all parts of the city were received for some time following the explosion by the police and fire departments of the city.

The opinion was expressed to the

Coolidge Has No Preference For Convention City

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Coolidge has no preference for the 1928 Republican convention city, white house callers were informed today.

Commenting upon reports that William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican committee, had passed the word that Kansas City was his choice, white house officials declared it was doubtful if Butler had really expressed any preference concerning the selection of a city.

It was reiterated on behalf of the president that the decision is one entirely for the committee to decide.

Overturned Tractor Break's Driver's Leg

William Tindall of Slippery Rock, received a fracture of his right leg below the knee and bruises this morning at 10 o'clock when the steering wheel on a tractor he was driving broke and the tractor turned turtle and pinned him beneath.

Tindall who is employed by the Grossman Motor company of Slippery Rock was bringing the tractor to New Castle for overhauling and while driving on the Keister road the steering wheel suddenly broke and the tractor overturned and pinned him beneath the machine.

He was brought at once to the Shenago Valley hospital at New Castle and the broken bone set and several lacerations dressed. His condition is reported favorable.

Bull Was Fully Armed, So Will Just Played Safe

(Special To The News)

ON BOARD PRESIDENTIAL TRAIN, Somewhere [illegible] Dec. 6. — Having a great trip but can't find any revolutionists.

Sunday, the president, out on one of the big ranches where he was entertained, went into the bull ring himself and fought the bull. They had no weapons and didn't hurt the bull.

He tried to get me to go in, but the bull was still armed, so I stayed in the grand stand.

It was bull fighting that would have pleased the Americans. No horses and no bulls hurt; only a couple of men.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Prosecution In Jersey Murder Pulls Surprise

Important States Witness In Lilliendahl Case Reverses Testimony

DEFENSE THROWN INTO UPROAR

Witness Returns To Stand And Identifies Beach As Man Seen On Night Of Crime

(International News Service)

COUR HOUSE, MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 6.—Shortly after the defense had rested its case in the Lilliendahl murder trial today, the prosecution created a furore of excitement in the court room which acted as a bombshell to the defense case, when Harry S. Sanderson, state's witness, was recalled to the stand and positively identified Willis Beach, co-defendant with Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, as the man he saw running away from the murder scene on September 15.

Sanderson's appearance was a terrific blow to the defense, although his first appearance on the stand had been a distinct failure from the prosecution's standpoint. At that time he had been so uncertain in his identification, to the surprise of the prosecution, that the court ordered him held under surveillance.

Today Sanderson, a Sidney, Ohio, salesman, returned to the stand, and, after asserting that he wished to correct his former testimony, stated positively that Willis Beach, alleged illicit lover of Dr. William Lilliendahl's widow, was the man he saw running

Rooming House Blaze Claims Eight Victims

Eight Persons, Including Two Women And Three Children, Perish In Fire

VICTIMS TRAPPED BY SPREAD OF FIRE

Number Of Victims Were Connected With Wellman Murder Trial At Williamson

(International News Service)

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Dec. 6.—Eight people, including two women and three children, died in a rooming house fire in the dowtown section here early today.

THE DEAD

Albert Ireson, 49; Robert Ireson, 40; John L. Marcum, 33; Mrs. Willie Hampton, 38; her three children, aged six years, three years and six weeks, and Mrs. Myrtle Browning, 20.

Cause in Doubt

The names of the three children and the cause of the fire could not be determined immediately after the tragedy. The building, a two-story brick structure, was in flames before any attempts to extinguish it could be made. The lower part of it was occupied by a cafeteria and a negro porter was reported to have been fatally burned.

A number of the victims were connected with the Wellman murder trial now in progress here. Elijah Wellman, his three sons and another relative, Willie Dingess, are charged with killing William Conn, Jim Conn and Willie Hampton during a feud shooting at Dingess, near here last May.

Mrs. Willie Hampton, one of the victims, was the widow of one of the slain men. John Marcum, who also perished in the fire, was a deputy sheriff from Dingess, who had come here as a witness in the trial.

Eight Cities In Fight For Convention

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Formal invitations from eight cities to hold the Republican national convention in 1928 within their borders were received by the Republican national committee here today.

Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco, Cleveland, Detroit, Kansas City, Philadelphia and San Antonio sought the honor, each city guaranteeing the expenses of the convention.

Minneapolis presented an invitation, but withdrew it, because the convention hall there has been engaged for the month of June. Denver also withdrew its bid. Omaha made an inquiry, but did not invite the convention.

Clinic For Crippled Children Postponed

Crippled children's clinic which was to be held by Dr. J. O. Wallace of Pittsburgh at the Shenango Valley hospital today has been postponed until Thursday, December 8, Dr. Wallace having been called away on important work.

The message from Dr. Wallace saying that he could not possibly be here today came so late that it was impossible to notify the public.

Those who have new cases for examination and old cases for treatment are asked to bring them in the afternoon Thursday as Dr. Wallace is always so busy with operations in the forenoon that he cannot reach that work before the afternoon. If the children are brought in the forenoon they only become tired and no time is gained.

Report Governors Planning To Call Coal Conference

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — Reports reached Washington today that Governors Gore of West Virginia, Donahey of Ohio and Fisher of Pennsylvania were planning to call seperate conferences between miners and operators in an effortto settle the soft coal strike. These states have been hardest hit by the tie-up which began last April.

Until advised of the outcome of these mediations, the federal government will make no move to get the workers and operators into a joint conference.

The operators three months ago turned down a conference call by Governor Donahey, and the miners later appealed to President Coolidge to summon a joint meeting.

School Board Is Organized

New Members Are Sworn In And C. H. Young Named President

TIME OF BOARD MEETING CHANGED

Attorney Charles H. Young will head the New Castle school board for the next year. At the organization meeting of the board, held Monday evening, Dec. 5, in the North Street Junior High school, Mr. Young was elected to the vacancy caused by the term of James K. Love expiring. The new president is a member of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission and is chairman of the Lawrence county Republican committee.

With Mr. Young, Joseph E. Ligo, a veteran director, was elected as vice president. Because of the absence of Mr. Young in Harrisburg Monday night, Mr. Ligo was in the chair for the business session which followed the organization meeting.

Re-Elect Moffatt

Attorney William J. Moffatt, who has been the solicitor of the board for many years, was re-elected, his re-election being a matter of form. His familiarity with the school laws of the state have made him a valuable asset to the board and his re-election was conceded without any sign of opposition.

The meeting for organization was called in conformity with the law which prescribes the first Monday evening of December as the time for organization. Secretary Hugh M.

Congress Much Divided On Coolidge Message; Brookhart Condemns

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Coolidge's annual message was received in Congress today with the usual mixed praise and criticism.

Administration Republicans generally commended the document, while Democrats and Progressives picked flaws in many of the President's recommendations.

Senator Brookhart, Iowa insurgent, condemned the President's farm program in no uncertain terms. He declared the President had supported a "subsidy" for American railroads, a direct subsidy for ship owners, indirect "price-fixing" through the tariff for manufacturers, and had put the government into the banking business through the federal reserve system.

"After failing to oppose these measures for other groups, the President denounces their use to aid agriculture," Brookhart said. "His recommendations for relief are wholly inadequate. He has promised the farmer equality in his platform, though in office he is repudiating the pledge. I predict that if the President and the Republican party carry out his present recommendations, the West and South will put the Republican party out of business."

Senator Fess (R) of Ohio, who sponsored the President's substitute farm bill last year, heartily endorsed the message.

"I believe the President suggests the only sound farm relief policy," said Fess. "The chief value of his plan is its permanency and economic soundness. It is in line with the stabilization of industry and avoids the dangers of both price-fixing and subsidy."

Other portions of the message, however, won commendation. The coal section caused Senator Copeland (D) of New York, who sponsored a fed-

House "Big Four" Firmly In Saddle

Administration Leaders Are Firmly Entrenched In House On Opening Day

ALL LEADERS ARE RETURNED TO POWER

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Administration Republicans were firmly in the saddle in the house today.

The "Big Four" of the house—Speaker Longworth, of Ohio, Rep. Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican floor leader; Rep. Begg, of Ohio, assistant, and Rep. Snell of New York, chairman of the rules committee — stood unchallenged in the strategic positions which they have heretofore occupied, with Rep. Madden, (R) of Illinois, the appropriations committee as chairman.

While the Republican leaders frankly state that there will be no attempt to draw party lines on many of the big questions confronting the house, their party majority of 35 appeared to assure them of general dictatorship of house policies and control upon scores of measures demanded by the coolidge administration.

The first failure of an attempted Democratic-Insurgent alliance modelled upon the senate plan came with abandonment of proposals to liberalize the rules to make it possible for a minority to overrule Republican committees and the rules committee by summarily calling bills from committees to the floor.

Under the rules, as adopted, a pe-

Democratic-Insurgent Alliance Stands Pat On Norris Resolution

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Two warring camps rested on their arms in the senate today awaiting the delivery of President Coolidge's annual message to resume their battle over the expulsion of Senators-elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania.

A Democratic-Insurgent alliance stood ready to jam through resolutions, excluding both men without even allowing them to take their oaths of office. The defense hoped to avoid a direct vote on the ouster proposal while gaining a further hearing for the accused Senators-elect before a standing committee on the senate.

Hope To Delay Vote

This battle of parliamentary strategy was of vital importance to the Smith and Vare camps, as polls have indicated a clear majority of the senate is ready to expel both men without further investigation of their qualifications. The only hope that either Smith or Vare had to win his seat lay in a move which would postpone the final vote after they have estab-

Gives No Hint As To Attitude On Nomination

Message Deals Exclusively With Matters Confronting Nation

LONGEST AS YET GIVEN BY COOLIDGE

Follows In Main Ideas That Have Been Embodied In Previous Messages

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A satisfying picture of American conditions—peaceful and prosperous—was presented to the new Congress today by President Coolidge in his annual message.

PRES. COOLIDGE

He accompanied it with recommendations covering a variety of subjects, ranging from tax reduction to strengthening the navy. Today's message was the longest Mr. Coolidge has transmitted to Congress during his five years in the Presidency, but the politicians searched it in vain for some hint as to his future political plans.

"It is gratifying to report," said Mr. Coolidge, "that for the fourth consecutive year the state of the Union in general is good. We are at peace. The country as a whole has had a prosperity never exceeded. Wages are at their highest range; employment is plentiful. Some parts of agriculture and industry have lagged; some localities have suffered from storm and flood. But such losses have been absorbed without serious detriment to our great economic structure.

Strengthen Navy

Outstanding among the President's recommendations to the new Congress was his request that the navy be immediately strengthened—a move which he opposed last session on the eve of the ill-fated Geneva naval conference. Referring to the failure at Geneva, the President said:

"We need a very substantial sea armament . . . airplane carriers and a material addition to its force of cruisers. We can plan for the future and begin a moderate building program."

The President was quick to deny, however, that this meant any competitive arming. Even had Japan, Great Britain and the United States been able to agree upon naval limi-

OTHER TRUE BILLS FOUND BY GRAND JURY

In returns made by the grand jury this morning a true bill was found against Mrs. Ina L. Whitlatch, indicted for the murder of her husband, William R. Whitlatch. The crime was committed at the Whitlatch home on County Line street, where Mrs. Whitlatch is alleged to have shot her husband. The case will come up for trial next week.

Taylor, obtaining money by false pretense; Thomas Moore felonious assault and battery; Calvin Stevenson, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor; Calvin Stevenson, possessing liquor; Thomas Lee, carrying concealed weapons; Thomas Lee, pointing firearms. M. F. Dunn, possessing liquor.

In the case of L. J. Sullivan, charged with issuing a fraudlent check, the jury found not a true bill and placed the costs on the county.

In the case of Andy Rass, charged with larceny of an automobile, the jury found not a true bill as to larceny, the first count of the indictment, but a true bill on the second count, charging operation of a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner.

Dr. W. L. Campbell was named as temporary president and the nominations for the office of president and vice president opened. Mr. Young was elected on the third ballot.

Change Meeting Time

The regular meeting night of the board was changed also. For many years the board has been meeting on the second Tuesday night of each month. In the future the board will meet on the second Thursday evening after the first Monday of each month.

There being a vacancy on the sinking fund committee to serve with the president, Attorney Roy W. Hazen was elected to the post. To represent the board on the athletic council A. C. Hyde was elected.

Following the organization meeting a short business session was held in which the bonds of the H. L. Marvin Company and the Rubberstone Company were approved. They have contracts in the repair of the Croton school.

"Had my coal bill been passed at the last session," Copeland added, "the board of mediation, which he now recommends, would be in existence and it would be possible for the President to act favorably on the pressing appeal of the miners, who are seeking some action by the government."

The Boulder dam recommendation drew an endorsement from Senator Johnson (R) of California, and sarcasm from Senator Ashurst (D) of Arizona.

Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, leader of the fight for government operation of Muscle Shoals, endorsed the President's position on that project.

Senator Curtiss of Kansas, the Republican floor leader, said: "It is a very strong message and covers the national situation fully."

Again the Republican majority asserted itself when it buried by an almost straight party vote a Democratic proposal to deny Rep. James M. Beck of Pennsylvania his seat until his election is investigated. Beck, a former solicitor-general and noted constitutional lawyer was attorney for Senator-elect William S. tation at Geneva, he said, it still would have been necessary to build additional ships to round out the American navy.

"The failure to agree," he said, "should not cause us to build either more or less than we otherwise should.

"This country has put away the old world policy of competitive armaments. We should enter on no competition. But we should refrain from no needful program. It should be known to all that our military power holds no threat of aggrandizement.

"Wherever our flag goes the rights of humanity increase."

On Familiar Paths

In many of his recommendations the President found himself retreading the familiar paths of previous messages.

He dwelt at considerable length on the continued need for governmental economy; he gave his "complete support" to the treasury's tax reduction program of not to exceed $225,000,000; reiterated opposition to the McNary-Haugen farm bill, which he vetoed last session; he again advised that the government get out of the shipping business; he warned against any tinkering with the tariff; bespoke the government's determination to enforce prohibition to the best of its ability; approved the Boulder dam project; recommended the enactment of an anti-lynching bill; endorsed railroad consolidations; asked for congressional authority to intervene in coal strikes; favored creation of a federal department of education with a place in the cabinet, and urged Congress to deal cautiously and carefully with the problem of flood control.

Concerning flood control the President declared that "it is necessary to look upon this emergency as a national disaster," but he advised Congress against rushing headlong into any great national program.

Main Flood Problem

"Legislation this session," he said, "should be confined to our principal and most pressing problem, the lower Mississippi, considering tributaries only so far as they materially affect the main flood problem."

The mid-western agriculturists were again disappointed in that part of the President's message dealing with farm relief. While Mr. Coolidge reiterated his opposition to "any price-fixing schemes" of agricultural relief, he proposed no specific program of his own other than to generally recommend that there be created a federal board to assist in promoting co-operative marketing and providing for a revolving fund for the necessary financing.

"The past year has seen a marked improvement in the general condition of agriculture," he said. "Any sound and workable proposal to help the farmer will have the support of the government . . . but . . . government price-fixing is known to be unsound and bound to result in disaster.

"It is impossible to provide by law for an assured success and prosperity for all those engaged in farming."

Farm Problem

The principal problem in the farm situation remains the crop surplus, he said. The remedy for this condition, he thought, lies in reduced acreage and better marketing facilities rather than in specific legislative steps.

Mr. Coolidge dismissed prohibition in one paragraph by calling upon all citizens to obey the eighteenth amendment and giving a brief description of how the government is endeavoring to enforce the law, concluding with:

"The federal authorities propose to discharge their obligation for enforcement to the full extent of their ability."

Foreign relations were also dealt with briefly. He spoke of the differences with Mexico and of the dispatch of marines to China and to Nicaragua. Concerning Mexico he said:

"A firm adherence to our rights and a scrupulous respect for the sovereignty of Mexico . . . coupled with patience and forbearance, it is hoped, will resolve all our differences without interfering with the friendly relationship between the two governments."

"In general our relations with other countries can be said to have improved with the year.

"Our country has made much progress," he concluded. "But it has taken and will continue to take much effort. Competition will be keen, the temptation to selfishness and arrogance will be severe, the provocations to deal harshly with weaker peoples will be many. All of these are embraced in the opportunity for the greatness. They will be overbalanced by co-operation, by generosity and by a spirit of neighborly kindness. The forces of the universe are taking humanity in that direction. In doing good, in walking humbly, in sustaining its own people, in ministering to other nations, America will work out its own mighty destiny."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 6.—Four of the five forest fires which have been raging in Southern California, were reported under control today. Thousands of acres have been devastated by the flames including more than 200 houses. Damage was estimated to be more than $1,000,000.

lished a strong defense and have had an opportunity to win public sympathy.

The defense camps were silent over their plans, but it was certain they would offer a number of proposals, seeking first to get the two Senators-elect sworn in, and then, failing in that, to have their credentials referred to the Republican- controlled senate committee on privileges and elections.

Bar Men at Door

The Democratic-Insurgent alliance meanwhile stood pat behind the Norris resolutions, barring both men at the door. The alliance may allow a further investigation, but its members will fight to have the inquiry conducted by the Reed "Slush Fund" Committee.

The armistice will end about 1 o'clock this afternoon, when the senate reconvenes after hearing President's message to congress. The truce was arranged yesterday, after Smith and Vare had been challenged as they tried to take their oaths of office.

The charges against Smith, as set forth in the Norris ouster resolution, were (1) that $458,000 was spent in nominating him, of which his personal agent handled $171,000; (2) that Smith's agent accepted $203,000 from public utility heads while he was chairman of the Illinois Public Service Commission; and (3) that the acceptance of this money constituted a violation of Illinois law.

The charges against Vare were: (1) that $875,000 was spent in nominating him; (2) that there were numerous instances of fraud and corruption" in his behalf; and (3) that Gifford Pinchot, while governor of Vare's nomination was "partly bought and partly stolen."

Because of these charges, the Norris resolutions declared their nominations were "tainted with fraud," and it would be "contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the dignity and honor of the senate, and dangerous to the perpetuity of a free government" to seat either Vare or Smith. These phrases were lifted bodily from the old Newberry resolutions.

toward a blue coupe on the Atsion road from the lane where the doctor was slain.

His astounding reversal of testimony came within a few minutes after Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl the accused widow, who left the stand, haggard and drawn, after an hour of severe cross-examination, which left her confused and forced to answer "I don't recall."

Sanderson's testimony was brief and emphatic. He left the stand without cross-examination.

Beach Sags in Chair

With the exception of Samuel Bark, Texas lawyer, trick roper, etc., who claims that Beach confessed the crime to him in a plea for funds, Sanderson now stands out as the state's star witness. His testimony definitely placed Beach at the murder scene where Mrs. Lilliendahl claims negro thugs set upon her husband. Beach asserts he was at home, 28 miles away, at the time.

Beach, the jaunty little 50-year-old chicken raiser, sagged in his chair as Sanderson talked.

Mrs. Lilliendahl, physically spent from two days of grilling, rested her chin wearily on her hands. Her two days of testimony have been punctuated with sudden break-downs and sobs and her face plainly showed the strain of the ordeal today.

The state then began calling a number of rebuttal witnesses, including detectives and investigators who caught up various "loose ends" of their previous testimony.

Dunn's Version Of Gemas Fight

Rocco Would Surely Have Put Him Away Dunn Declares Today

Jimmie Dunn, who with Joe Cumo, directs the pugilistic affairs of Emmett Rocco, passed through New Castle enroute to Cleveland today following the Rocco-Gemas fight last night.

Dunn said that it would have been only a question of a round or more until Rocco would have knocked Gemas out and he did not blame O'Brien, chief second for Gemas, in tossing up the towel.

Jimmie said that Rocco had given Gemas a bad whipping and that apparently Gemas was through at the end of the fourth round as he was in bad condition and had a lacerated eye.

Although Dunn did not say definitely what had occurred in the other corner he did state his impression of why Manager O'Brien threw in the towel.

It was to the effect that both Gemas and O'Brien realized that Gemas was through and O'Brien told Gemas to go out in the fifth, try to "land" Rocco and if he failed, O'Brien would throw the towel in.

This impression sounds very plausible and is probably the correct angle to the fight. Dunn claims that Rocco had the fight won and though stung in the fifth, he was far from being near out.

Remus Engages In Argument With Cincinnati Court

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COURT HOUSE, Cincinnati, Dec. 6.—A dramatic episode in the Remus melodrama was staged in criminal court when George Remus, who is acting as his own lawyer at his trial for the murder of his wife, Imogene, engaged in a violent argument with Judge Chester R. Shook, who threatened to cite him for contempt of court.

The sheriff and bailiffs put Remus back into his chair by force. Meanwhile, Remus' pretty daughter, Ramola, sitting in the prisoner's dock with her father, urged him not to do "anything rash."

Dainty June Is Back; Heads Capitol Bill

Dainty June is back in New Castle. Attractive as ever, just a wee bit older perhaps, and with a company that supports her in a real way, Dainty June, "Vaudeville's Sweetheart" is back in the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of the week. It's been several years since the little lady was here and in that time she has taken on a lot of showmanship. Her act was a success here when she was introduced to New Castle, it's a wowser now.

By a coincidence, another act which went so big here several years ago is back, the Four White Kuhns, a musical act. Sort of a reunion week in vaudeville and the Capitol is always glad to book return engagements of acts of this kind. The opening act is Jack and Jackie, two friendly youngsters who are on the vaudeville stage but a short time. Jack is a strong man, and his physical development is remarkable. Jackie is a petite bit of a girl who does a little singing and a little dancing and is quite an eyeful.

The picture is Laura La Plante in "Silk Stockings". The managment has secured for the last three days of the week, the picture which is the talk of the East, "Wild Geese" starring Belle Bennett.

When he holds one of these smart new Hamiltons in his hand its beauty will win his heartiest admiration. As he uses it year after year its dependability and accuracy will amaze him again and again. The Hamilton was the first watch to time the United States air mails. It timed the first plane that crossed the pole. Explorers use it. Railroads use it; for it is the watch of railroad accuracy. It is made in many models both pocket and strap. Hamiltons range in price from $48 to $685.

PRESIDENTIAL RECOMMENDATIONS

AMONG the messages to congress of latter-day presidents those of Mr. Coolidge are notable by their complete freedom from rhetorical efforts to create issues for the advancement of personal or party political fortunes. His message to the seventieth congress is no exception to a rule established by those that have preceded it.

This message is free from political propaganda and extravagant claims for the present administration. It fulfills its purpose of reporting, to congress, the state of the union, and, where it makes recommendations, they show no conscious effort to "sell" the president's ideas to congress and the people. Without straddling fences or evading problems it settles rather than starts arguments.

The members of congress and every citizen sufficiently interested in affairs of government to read the text of the message are indebted to the chief executive for his lucid and enlightening discussion of the problems destined to occupy the serious attention of the newly-organized congress. His messages have that rare ability to distinguish, for the public's edification, between real problems and those invented by politicians for purely political reasons.

Consistency, without tiresome reiteration, is discovered when one compares this message with the preceding messages of President Coolidge. Such a comparison shows that, while he is strong enough to change his mind when occasion arises, continued deliberation and study have left unshaken his original conclusions. Even the fortunes of politics and his memorable decision not to be a candidate next year have not altered his attitude toward vital issues.

That the sober man in the white house does not discount the serious nature of the agricultural situation is best shown by the fact that this question occupies, in the message, more space than any other single question and crops up again and again in the discussion of other issues and questions.

For the same reasons that he vetoed the Haugen-McNary bill, he again declares himself against government price-fixing for farm products and a farm subsidy. He is still of the opinion, notwithstanding a vacation spent in the heart of the wheat and corn belt, that government price-fixing is unsound and sure to result in disaster, that a government subsidy would work out in the same way, that the consumers cannot be compelled to pay for more food than they consume and that no plan of farm relief will be of any permanent value which does not leave him standing on his own foundation.

Mr. Coolidge would aid the farmer along the road to permanent prosperity by government loans for farm financing and co-operative marketing, by halting reclamation work to reduce the surplus, and consequently increase the value, of farm land.

Other recommendations from the chief executive urge railroad consolidation, petroleum conservation, relief for the Mississippi flood area in the form of financial aid in making the flood control system equal to any emergency, a "hands-off" policy toward the protective tariff, further national economy, war debt reduction rather than tax reduction, so there may be future tax reduction, and national defense based on absolute needs and free of the Old World policy of competitive armaments.

It must be a source of great gratification to Mr. Coolidge to be able to report to congress that for the fourth consecutive year the state of the union in general is good and that, if the people maintain that confidence which they are entitled to have in themselves, in each other, and in America, a comfortable prosperity will continue.

NOTABLE MARINE CORPS OVERSEA FLIGHT

THE flight of a fully equipped Marine Corps monoplane from Maimi across Florida and the Gulf of Mexico to Yucatan and then southward to Tela, Honduras, is made doubly impressive by the fact that it wasn't a "stunt", but a routine performance.

Major Brainard, the pilot, had planned to reach Managua, Nicaragua, without a stop; he descended as darkness set in, but afterwards reached Managua. The distance to Tela was about 800 miles; and the elapsed time of more than thirteen hours would indicate that the monoplane met with headwinds, which were greatly feared as a deterrent to success.

In addition to the pilot there was a crew of two. The plane is a combined bombing and transport type and therefore approximates the character of a passenger carrier. If the voyage had been made when the sun was north of the equator and the days were longer it is almost certain that the Nicaraguan capital would have been reached. To have continued onward over mountainous country in the darkness would have been to risk the plane and the lives of its occupants unnecessarily. The course for Managua led directly across the mountains to the Pacific.

Incidentally, the Marine Corps plane is being delivered in Nicaragua for patrol work against the guerillas along the Honduran border who have terrorized the northern provinces. Its arrival will herald a drive by the Nicaraguan National Guard and the United States Marines to clean out these irregular bands. A prelude to the drive has been a proclamation forbidding the importation of arms and munitions, in which it appears there has been a lively traffic across the Honduran border.

In Day's News

The man who faces the colossal task if estimating how much money will be required to keep Uncle Sam's affairs in good running order during the coming year is Gen. Herbert M. Lord, director of the budget who today celebrates his 68th birthday anniversary. Gen. Lord has held this position since 1922 when he succeeded Charles G. Dawes who is now vice president of the United States. He is a native of Rockland, Ma., and spent most of his early career in active newspaper work. At the time of the Spanish war he entered the United States military service. In time he became finance officer of the army after having served several years as assistant to Maj. Gen. Goethals who held that post. As chief of finance of the war department he displayed abilities which led to his selection for his present position.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:33. Sun rises tomorrow 7:11.

We notice an item in a newspaper where a woman is to become a prohibition officer. Is it right to ask a woman to take up that kind of a life?

A lady near Pittsburgh charges her husband with making her plow, threw her out of an automobile and burned her leg with a cigarette. Seems to us a lady who can plow would not have to stand for at least the burning part.

Envy no man the heights he has reached until you have examined the ladder up which he climbed.

A new proposed 25 per cent tax on prize fight tickets is worrying one Tex Rickard. He says he thinks it will kill boxing. He means it will kill his money-grabbing game if the tax on tickets is too high. We would like to see something happen to the kind of fights he pulls off.

There is hope for the saphead, but none for the sorehead.

Anyone who puts a stop to an endless chain makes a hit with us, no matter how much bad luck is predicted in them if the chain is broken. We would have been in the poor house years ago if breaking endless chains had anything to do with getting into such a place.

"It's been a hard grind," sighed the mechanic as he replaced the valves.

Henry Ford's new car was the cause of the biggest advertising week in many a long time for the American newspapers. Mr. Ford doesn't put cards in store windows or on telegraph poles.

A helpful wife used to be a home body, but nowadays Friend Husband seems to think he has a helpful mate if she will go downtown and get a job as stenographer or sales lady.

The main activities of America from now on should be confined to keeping wars from coming to this country over our two oceans. And that is as far as we should go.

With drug stores multiplying as fast as corner groceries, that schoolgirl complexion seems likely to decorate little sister for a generation or so.

According to the modern idea, a gentleman of the old school is one who does eat with his knife.

Our guess is that many women think their husbands need a chaperon more than their daughter does.

Down south they pluck the cotton. Down east they pluck the pluckers.

A short walk daily will help your health—if someone does not run over you.

New York bandits recently stole a player piano. The churches had better watch out for their pipe organs.

The king of Arabia has 24 wives and he has two specially constructed automobiles to haul them around with when he goes on a trip. He has quite a few back seat drivers, all right.

A storm not long ago tossed a lot of lobsters on the beach. Some places don't need a storm to get the same effect.

The Indians used to be as dangerous as automobiles are now.

Mr. Ford expects to make and sell over two million automobiles in the next year. And nothing like that has ever been heard of before.

The longest month in the year for the small boys and girls, and also for many grown-ups, is December. It is the shortest month for papa, who pays the freight on January 1—if he can.

The World War left us the toy-making industry of the world, anyhow. We are making two hundred million dollars worth of toys now that were once made mostly in Germany. And we also make most all the colors that go with the toys now. And look at the experience we got by the war. We know whose credit is good now, also.

An Ohio man celebrated his 100th birthday and declared he is right in the middle of his life. He is so old he does not know any better.

A lot of boobs are self-made men also, but they don't admit it.

The new Ford is not like a Lincoln, even without whiskers.

Sixty railroads are now operating motor busses in conjunction with their railroads. They do not need any depots for busses. They just let the passengers stand out in the rain.

The new Ford will be "swell", leaving no car in which it will seem appropriate to ride comfortably with one foot hanging out.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

There was once an Irish cobbler who had so much work to do he insisted on taking his shoe repairing to wakes. It got to be so much talked about that the village people thought they would cure him of it. A neighbor pretended to die. The cobbler came to the wake and sitting beside the coffin went on with his work.

The "dead" man suddenly sat up in his coffin and said severely:

"Faith! Don't ye know that ye are not supposed to cobble at a wake?"

"Faith!" retorted the cobbler, whacking the "corpse" over the head with his hammer, "don't ye know a corpse is supposed to be dead? Get ye down where ye belong."

One of the hardest things to stand, says The Christian Endeavor World, is to be insulted—with the truth.

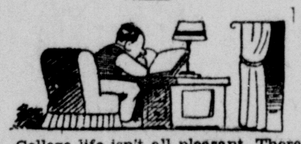

A young couple had just married and were celebrating their first evening together at one of the night clubs in Washington. They had purposely selected a table off in a dark corner, where they wouldn't be pried upon by meddlesome eyes. The lovers were whispering sweet nothings to each other and imagined that they were on some deserted island by themselves when a white-aproned servant confronted them.

"What would you like to have?" asked the genial waiter.

"A honeymoon sandwich," replied the young man, hungrily.

"What do you mean by a 'honeymoon sandwich'?" inquired the waiter.

"Just lettuce alone," said the newlywed.

College life isn't all pleasant. There is a dreary season between football and baseball when there's nothing to do but study.

He was a young doctor and he had been asked to break the news to the wife of the man who had been run over by an automobile.

"Is my husband really ill?" asked the lady.

"Ah-er—alittle rundown," said the young doctor hopefully.

Some people are taking advantage of the early Christmas buying, and they are the ones who are getting the best bargains. There is still time to buy early and get good selections.

Mr. Billerton, the butcher, was a jovial soul. As he was cutting up an order of lamb chops for a lady customer she asked curiously: "Mr. Billerton, what led you to choose your present occupation?"

"Well, really, I don't know, ma'am," explained Mr. Billerton. "Maybe it was because I have always been fond of animals."

Why not send motor law violators especially reckless drivers and fast ones, to jail and then have them do a trick at cleaning the city streets for the careful drivers to go over? That would curb it, we feel sure. At least it would give good citizens a chance to see who the reckless babies are.

Forty-two percent of the seven billion cigars made in the United States last year sold for less than a nickel apiece. It does look as though Ex-Vice President Marshall's wish for a good five-cent cigar has come true.

If some of the so-called things we see on the stage are "Revues", as they are called, we would like to see the real things they are revues of. It would be an education, we are sure.

This year there is greater need than ever for food, clothing and shoes for the unfortunate. The City Rescue Mission is sending out its annual appeal and this they need more. Remember this is home missionary work, all the money and food stuff are used right in New Castle and you know where every bit of it goes. We are boosters for the Mission because they take upon their shoulders the grief of the city and enjoy doing it. We are glad to contribute to escape the direct contact with the sorrow and woe. We are a little selfish no doubt, but we believe in organized charity such as the Mission is.

The reason why high shoes for women are not made any more is apparent to us, though perhaps not to the shoe manufacturers. Shoes used to come to the bottom of ladies' dresses, but that can't be done now. There isn't that much leather available, and besides, it would take a lady all day to lace or button them.

It must be humiliating to declare you won't run and then see the party struggle gamely to its feet after the shock.

Ruth Elder says no more washing dishes for her, and we don't blame her if the dishes have been piled up in the sink ever since she left on her trip over the big drink.

In Lawrence county if you come before Judges Hildebrand or Chambers you realize that the way of the transporter is hard.

The reason English are such tea drinkers has been discovered. Just take a taste of their coffee.

Three weeks from last night and Christmas will be over for 1927. And it won't take three weeks long to pass now.

The companionate marriage has made its appearance and now we have the pal divorce. And besides, there are lots of divorcees who are good pals, too.

A prominent educator suggests that we have more intelligent voting. We are in favor of that, too, if the Democrats will just vote the Republican ticket.

Al Smith's blast at the prohibition law is blasting away his hopes for the Democratic presidential nomination. The Democratic Party is not wet and Al will find it out. Besides, his and his followers continued yammering about the negroes in the South not voting is not going to make the South very warm toward him. And it won't be a long wait to see if these things are true.

Science employs methods that seem more fantastic than those of a voodoo witch doctor. Malaria germs cure softening of the brain, nothing else will.

London's Ross Cancer Institute will test the discovery of Dr. Pitta of Funchal:

"A few drops of a mattery discharge from trachoma, a contagious disease of the eye, injected into a growing cancer, caused an immediate arrest of the malignant growth, followed by disintegration."

Cancer of the breast, beyond the reach of surgical operation, is said to have been cured by this injection. Eventually a cure for cancer will be found.

Ferrets are used to destroy their vicious half brothers, the rats. Germs of one disease might well attack and destroy malignant cancer growth.

Lloyd George, responsible for the fact that King George sits on his throne, says "another world war would be so devastating that European civilization would stagger to ruin under its shock. Weapons of war have developed so rapidly in destructive capacity that another four years' conflict between great nations would lay waste the fabric which it has taken centuries to build up."

Lloyd George says Italy, inspired with aggressive patriotism by Mussolini, "reads that great army across the Alps," meaning the French army, against the 3,500,000 men that Italy could call 4,500,000. Russia could produce an army of 9,000,000 men, but would not have weapons, cannon or ammunition for them.

The meaning of all this to the United States is that we ought to build fast flying machines, big submarines, as many fast battle cruisers as we might need to prevent interference with our floating commerce, and KEEP OUT OF EUROPEAN AFFAIRS, ENTANGLEMENTS, DEBTS.

Dr. A. B. Lamb, who teaches chemistry at Harvard, says chemists will solve "humanity's three major problems of the future, the supply of energy, of food, and prevention and cure of disease."

Progress is swift. Twenty-seven years ago chemists solemnly agreed that in chemistry the limit of knowledge had about been reached. And since 1900 more has been learned about chemistry and its possibilities, including construction of the atom and the power locked up in it, than had been learned in all the previous centuries.

The diary of the late czar tells how badly he was treated by the Bolsheviki. He wasn't allowed to walk on the river bank, and guards threw all of the czar's wine into the river.

Other diaries written in Russia, not by the czar, tell how hundreds of men and old and young women had died under the knout, or in the dungeons of St. Peter and St. Paul. One prisoner of the czar, fearing that he would betray his comrades under the lash, pulled himself up to the window of his cell where a little oil lamp burned, and held himself there until the flame had burned into his side sufficiently to kill him.

The czar's crime was the crime of being czar. Their crime was the crime of demanding liberty.

The automobile situation is encouraging for publishers. A great automobile advertising campaign is ahead for 1928. A half dozen makers produce what the people want. The problem is to let the people know in such a way as to force purchases. The power of suggestion, greatest force in salesmanship, resides, 99 per cent, in intelligent advertising.

Mr. Morrow, our ambassador to Mexico, inspecting Mexico's wonders, accompanied by President Calles of Mexico and Will Rogers, is much interested in a gigantic dam for irrigation now being constructed by Mexican government in the state of Aguas Calientes.

After a few years Will Rogers, Ambassador Morrow and President Calles may see a big dam built by this slow-moving government to utilize for power and irrigation the waters of the Colorado river. Anything can happen.

THE EXAMINATION

In one of our important cities the members of the detective force took exception to the kind of examination which they received at the hands of the Civil Service officers.

They claim that the questions they were asked had nothing to do with their ability as detectives and were mere catch questions.

A perusal of these questions as given in the press bears out the statement that they were merely trivial and unimportant.

We recall the case of old John Rhinebarger, who wanted a job as a mail clerk in the railway post office. He was examined by the Civil Service Commission. One of the questions asked him was, "How far is it from the earth to the sun?"

He replied, "I don't think it is far enough to interfere with my duties as a railway mail clerk."

Another question that was asked him was, "How many Hessions were imported into the United States during the Revolutionary War?"

His answer was, "I don't remember exactly, but a lot more of them came over than went back."

This kind of question deserves about this kind of answer.

The examination is a traditional and rock-rooted fake. It is one of the worst ways of finding out whether a man is qualified for a position. The best teacher often is not the one with the most information and assorted knowledge, but the one who has a gift for teaching and can make pupils want to study.

The best preacher is not the one who knows the most facts, but the one who can nourish spiritual desires in his congregation.

The most competent woman is not the one who can take a prize in a beauty contest, but the one who has "It" and makes a man love her and keep his love.

A teacher who has been six months in a room with a pupil and then needs an examination at the end to find out how much a pupil knows or his other qualifications, is not much of a teacher.

There is one way to find out if a person is fit for his job. Let him try it and see how he succeeds. The man we want is the man that can do the business.

The best cook is not the one who can pass an examination on calories and such things, but is one who can cook a good meal and often cannot tell how she does it.

Examinations anyhow indicate mere ability to write.

I could write a better essay on horse-shoeing than most any blacksmith, but if I tried to shoe a horse I should probably be kicked into the middle of next week.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

TENNESSEE TO ST. PAUL'S.

The "Modernists" and "Fundamentalists" are at it again. This time the scene is not laid in Tennessee but in the ancient Cathedral of St. Paul, in London. The pulpit of St. Pauls is filled by "gloomy" Dean Inge. In this particular scene the "gloomy" Dean had no part beyond the fact that he had invited Dr. E. W. Barnes, the Bishop of Birmingham to preach.

Now, the Bishop of Birmingham is a "Modernist" and upon this occasion he aired his modernistic views hegarding the Holy Sacrament. This English Bishop takes issue with the "Fundamentalists" concerning the Sacrament, by refusing to believe that the mere words of a consecrated clergyman can change human bread and human wine into the actual flesh and blood of Jesus Christ.

Canon G. R. Bullock Webster, Rector of the Church of St. Michael Royal is a "Fundamentalist" He was present when the Bishop of Birmingham made his pronouncement He immediately jumped to his feet and cried his appeal to the worshippers, saying that their "ears should be stopped to such fresh profanities" and called upon all those who felt as he did to leave the Cathedral. Nearly 500 people followed him. The newspapers called the affair a "Brawl". The Canon has appealed to the authorities of the Church of England to properly punish the Bishop of Birmingham for his heresy. The affair has stirred up a tremendous feeling among English churchmen.

The attitude of thinking men and women toward this conflict between the two sects within the Christian Church, I believe should be that expressed by the London Daily Express, when it says: "Such a protest, a scandal in one sense, a declaration of faith in another, is the inevitable result of those modernist preachings, which, vainly pursuing an impossible harmony in logic and words between science and religion, have upset the satisfying beliefs and disturbed the minds of millions of devout Christians in and out of the Church of England, in the search for what they call the Truth. The modernists have been far too careless of the danger they were inflicting upon something far more precious—Faith."

"It's funny" said Bud, "but I don't

As very much older than I.
She's as pretty to me as the younger

And the light is as bright in her

That she is my mother I'm certainly glad,
I don't blame you for falling in love

"Some women seem old" said the youngster to me,
"But I can't think of mother as old;
She's as young looking now as a mother can be
And that's not a lie that I've told.
She's not very cross when I've been very bad
I don't blame you for falling in love
with her dad!"

And I chuckled to hear that young rascal discuss
His mother in terms of his age.
For it pelased me to know he was so

And I promised to double his wage.
For it's really a joy when a blithehearted lad,
So fully indorses the choice of his dad.

C. B. D. CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

"I'VE GOT A SYSTEM"

The gambler is the world's most unreflecting optimist. He always believes that his luck is about to turn. He will certainly have better luck than his opponent tomorrow or the next day.

The simplest form of gambling is playing your optimism against the immutable law of averages. Suppose Jones and Smith bet even money on the flip of a coin. The proceeding is absurd on its face, for it is absolutely known beforehand that a fairly tossed coin will land heads up half of the time and tails up the other half. Provided, of course, that it is tossed often enough. The chances are exactly equally divided. Upon what, then, does Jones base his belief that he may win more than Smith? Why, upon a primitive superstition that tells him that he is a better man than Smith, and that therefore his luck will be better! Smith is intoxicated with the same feeling of superiority over Jones, and thinks that of course luck will favor the better man.

When gambling gets a little more complicated than that, each bettor thinks he knows something about gambling that is unknown to all the others. This thought, too, is based upon childish superstitions, rather than upon reason or intelligence.

I had never known a man addicted to playing the ponies or buying lottery tickets or betting at roulette who would not confide to a very close friend some time: "Well, you see, I've got a system. I don't just bet blind, like a lot of fellows do. I've got a system, and it's bound to win in the end, I tell you!"

If you investigate these systems you will find that they consist of some wholly meaningless series of numbers or symbols, based upon superstitious thoughts. Maybe the car Jenkins boarded on his way to work this morning was numbered 397. That's enough to start a system for Jenkins. He'll bet his hard-earned money on the third, ninth and seventh horses in the list, or perhaps upon horses bearing numbers that are multiples or merely the doubles of these numbers. The "system" may be more complicated than that sometimes, but it is never more sensible. It is amazing how infantile the human mind can be, even in an adult who knows a hawk from a handsaw.

Those sending greetings included Rev. R. M. Offutt, Indiana, Pa.; Rev. S. A. Kirkbride, New Wilmington; Rev. E. R. Tait, Clairton, Pa.; Rev. Hunter, Blairsville, Pa.; Rev. J. C. Committee On New Castle And Shenango Hospitals To Meet Tonight

About 30 persons attended the investigation of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts, held under the Survey Board of the Community Chest Monday evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Greer building.

In commenting on the meeting, Herbert Peairs, who is conducting the survey of the charitable institutions, started by Mrs. Grace Phillips Johnson when the Community Chest drive was on stated that nothing of consequence developed from the meeting, and all criticism that was brought out came directly from lack of knowledge of circumstances. However, he stated, the Y. W. C. A. was criticised for employing too much help in their cafeterias.

"But not one complaint came up about extravagance in management of any of the institutions" declared Mr. Peairs, "and everyone agreed that they were rendering a distinct service to the community at large."

Under the leadership of James K. Love, the sub-committee on public health will meet this evening at 7:30 in the Chamber of Commerce directors' room to consider the case of the New Castle and the Shenango Valley hospitals.

Members of the committee are: Dr. J. M. Blackwood, Dr. J. R. Cooper, Judge S. P. Emery, Frank F. Fisher, Dr. John Foster, Adolph Green, Mrs. H. M. Kirk, John H. Lamb, T. F. Morehead, T. C. Post, James M. Smith, Dr. C. W. Trainor, Geo. T. Weingartner, and Dr. Loyal W. Wilson.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is, pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and hoarseness.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

J. P. Grzybowsky, 1601 Moravia street, reported that he was driving south on Moravia street, near the Davis feed store, when the car of T. F. Gilliland stopped without a signal and he, the former, ran into the Gilliland machine.

Drug Store Men Called Firemen

Maurice Schoenberger, manager of the New Castle Drug company at North and Mill streets, said today that a small item in The News on Monday concerning a fire scare in the building occupied by the drug store was a little misleading.

Employes of the drug store noted the odor of something burning and made an investigation he said. Failing to discover what was the source, the firemen were called by Mr. Schoenberger. Investigation then resulted in the discovery that some cardboard near the hot water heater was smoldering.

Prompt investigation by the drug store employes prevented what might have been a serious blaze. There was no loss.

"Electricity!

The Tireless Servant of America's Prosperity"

Says Lewis E. Pierson
President of the United States
Chamber of Commerce

"Many factors have contributed to the pre-eminent position of America's workers, but underlying everything else has been the fact that the American wage earner has had more horse power at his elbow than the worker of any other industrial nation."

WHILE the rest of the world wrestles with unrest and industrial strife, capital and labor in America work shoulder to shoulder on a basis that has resulted in higher standards of living than those enjoyed by any other people.

The most highly developed system of electric power equipment and facilities in the world has helped make this condition of affairs possible.

Because of the engineering skill and organizing ability which have gone into the expansion of America's power plants, there is available to American industry today more electrical energy than is produced in all the rest of the world combined.

Increasing, as it does, the production capacity of the worker by forty fold, this great industrial force has improved the financial status of American labor approximately fifty per cent in the last fifteen years, while at the same time, materially decreasing the cost of manufacturing articles.

In the light of such achievement, it is obvious that the interests of American business and American family life will be served best by the careful preservation of the principle of individual initiative by which such accomplishments have been made possible.

Two Miles Concrete Road Will Be Built North Of Eastbrook

Two miles of concrete highway will be built on the Eastbrook-Volant road in the early spring, according to the state highway department which has set the date of January 26-27 for the opening of bids for the construction of the new road.

The new road, according to plans drawn by the state highway department will begin at the end of the macadam road west of East Brook and extend through the village and just beyond the village turn north towards Volant. The two miles will bring it about flush with the road that turns east towards the Frank Alborn farm, just beyond the old Thomas Patterson residence.

Two other road contracts in this district are due to be let at the same date. One is 18,800 feet of concrete road between Eau Claire and the macadam road between Clintonville and Emlenton, through Allegheny and Scrubgrass townships and Cherry Valley Boro in Butler and Venango counties.

When completed this will give a hard surfaced road between Eau Claire and Emlenton and through Clintonville to Barkeyville on the Harrisville-Franklin road. A part of this road was built north of Eau Claire last season. This is part of a link of road from Butler to Emlenton through Boydstown and North Washington, but a large stretch yet unimproved lies between Eau Claire and Boydstown.

The other road to be contracted is 19,190 feet of road in Venango and Clarion counties north of Emlenton as far as Mariasville where it meets the hard surfaced road to Van on the Lakes to Seas highways.

A fourth piece of road to be let is in Hickory township, Mercer county, between the Warfield cemetery near Hickory high school and Farrell connecting the cement roads that run parallel into Sharon from West Middlesex. The opening of bids on this road is to take place on December 16.

C. M. T. Camp Post To Be Organized

Captain Craig Sets First Meeting For Friday Night At Legion Home

To organize a Citizens' Military Training Camp post in New Castle, a meeting of all residents who have attended any summer camp since the movement was started has been called for Friday evening, December 8, at seven o'clock at the American Legion Home by Captain Melvin L. Craig, head of the Officers Training Corps of this district.

The object of the organization, states Capt. Craig, will be to promote better citizenship, patriotic interest and closer association of members of the various C. M. T. C's.

There are in existance, declares Capt. Craig, a number of C. M. T. clubs throughout the country and they are conducting periodical drills in the National Guard armories. Others are largely social organizations and meet but two or three times during the winter. The formation of a rifle club, to be connected with the National Rifle Association is also contemplated.

There may be some who did not receive an announcement of the meeting, but who have attended a Citizens Military Training Camp. Captain Craig wishes it to be made clear that these men are also welcome at the meeting.

New Castle Man Is Fined For Cruelty

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 6.—When hauling a horse in a truck from New Castle to Pittsburgh, one should, on a day like yesterday, see that the nag wears a covering of some sort. This was impressed upon Lewdis Shear of New Castle, but the lesson cost him a $10 fine, plus costs. Shear was arrested in Sewickley by Clarence W. Prosator, a humane agent, and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Margaret M. Morgan on a charge of cruelty to animals.

Building Code Too Expensive For Butler

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 6.—Council voted to table indefinitely the ordinance which provides for the adoption of a building code for the city of Butler. The reason given by opponents of the code is that the industrial conditions of the city and vicinity do not justify the expense involved in operation of a building code.

A committee, headed by J. Walter Ketterer, has spent about two years in preparation of the building code, and considerable cost has been created in the work already done.

More Government Buildings! Is Smoot's Impassioned Plea

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The joke would be on Senator Smoot, if only he could live to the age of 165.

The Utah senator's thoroughly tired of seeing our glorious government in Washington housed mostly in a lot of tumble-down old shacks, a good many of them rented at fancy prices, for the simple reason that it's grown several times faster than congress ever's been able to keep up with, with any sort of a building program.

So finally he resolved to launch one, guaranteed to furnish adequate accommodations for all the executive departments, and, mainly through his efforts, work actually was started the other day.

The joke is that the senator's optimistic enough to think it's humanly possible to build buildings at the clip this government's expanding.

Smoot, himself, knows it will be no slouch of a job.

He calculates it will take a century to finish. That's why he needs to live to 165, in order to see what it looks like completed.

Ah, yes, senator, but have you really got any idea that you can pack the government of 2027-3 into the quarters you're breaking ground for now?—any more than the government of today can squeeze inside the quarters it's got already?

Yeah, the senator says; he does—he's making due allowances for growth.

Why, shucks! There are departmental buildings in the capital today, built no longer ago than the World war, whose personnels have slopped over, since then, into dozens of other buildings, scattered all over town, besides being so crowded—all of 'em—that you can't swing a cat in one of their corridors without knocking over some assistant functionary or other.

What's known as the state and war building, used to be called the state, war and navy, in 1915, because it held all three departments comfortably.

The navy's been evicted completely—hangs out in temporary barracks, and is overflowing those, in turn, now.

The war department still hangs, by its eyelids, onto a few offices in the original domicile, but the state folks yell for 'em constantly—and they're not a heavily manned department, comparatively.

They're all in the same fix—worse, some of them.

The new building Senator Smoot's making a beginning with is to cover two solid city squares, which sounds pretty imposing, doesn't it?

Well, it's the merest flea bite alongside his whole program.

It's only intended to make room for the internal revenue bureau—just a single sub-division of the treasury department. The entire department will need eight or ten such buildings. And mind, the treasury department's only one of ten executive departments—and there's plenty of clamor for two or three additional ones.

Smoot's program is sometimes spoken of as a 100-million dollar program, but that only represents the small change the senator has in sight, as available right now.

Nobody can guess what the figures will run into before the 100 years are up.

Candidly, nobody cares, either. Let posterity worry.

Also, what's the betting that posterity won't be tearing down the Utah solon's internal revene building, as an unsanitary, unsightly chicken coop, before it's ready to break ground for the last edifice of his series?

Securing Data On Proposed Bridge

Prospective Bidders On Wampum Viaduct Is Securing Facts On Project

Representatives of the Stevens Construction company of Cleveland were at the county commissioners' office this morning, securing information regarding the Wampum bridge and viaduct, on which the company proposes to offer a bid. Their representatives went to Wampum this afternoon to look over the ground.

The county commissioners have sent out 27 sets of plans. It is not likely that all of those who have received plans will submit a bid, but it is expected that bids will be received from the majority.

Eight Men Pay $500 For Two Deer Illegally Killed

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Dec. 6.—Two deer killed illegally cost four men and four women a total of more than $500 when they were apprehended by State Game Protector Arthur Lodge of Cameron county.

While enroute to a party at Karthus near here the party is alleged to have killed the deer. They left the carcasses in the brush at the roadside where they were found by Logue who hid nearby until the party returned.

As the carcasses were being loaded the arrests were made.

The men all of whom were fined $100 and costs each were Samuel Burfield, Orvie Pfoutz, Merrill Pfoutz of Sinnemahoning and Charles Colley of Karthus. The women were dismissed after being forced to pay the costs in their case.

Last year Burfield and Orvie Pfoutz paid a fine of $100 each on a similar charge.

Two Centenarians Scoff At Old Age

CINCINNATI, Dec. 6.—Two centenarians celebrated birthdays here recently, scoffed at old age and said they were right in the middle of their lives.

Six Thousand Bills Now Before Congress

Postoffices, Pensions And Prohibition Big Ideas Before Congressmen

Many Wet And Dry Measures Are Introduced For Consideration

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Prohibition, postoffices and pensions rule the thoughts of congressmen, if the 6,000 bills on file today in the house are a fair indication of the business of the 70th session.

While pension and postoffice bills make up the vast majority, the wet and dry question furnished the next great bone of contention.

More than a score of prohibition bills, the majority "wet", were introduced. They range from repeal of the Volstead Act and restoration of state rights to a national referendum. Two dry bills drastically increasing penalties for violation of the liquor laws appeared.

Almost every conceivable subject of legislation is embraced in the vast grist of measures tossed into the legislative hopper before the new congress is 24 hours old. They reach out to solve the coal question and descend to a bill making it unlawful to interfere with carrier pigeons in flight.

Rep. Well (D) of New York, proposed that congress establish a national conservatory of music, while Rep. Kindred (D) of New York urged establishment of a national police bureau. Rep. Elliott (R) of Indiana, wants to prohibit the use of the U. S. Capital for parade, concert or flag display purposes by any organization without consent of congress. Funerals would be similarly barred under the bill offered by Elliott.

A bill abolishing capital punishment in the nation's Capital was offered by Rep. McLeod (R) of Michigan.

Adoption of a medal to commemorate the heroic services of American women in war-time was urged by Rep. Dyer (R) of Missouri.

Every national bank would be required to maintain armed guards under a bill proposed by Rep. Roy G. Fitzgerald (R) of Ohio.

Repeal of the law prohibitng interstate shipment of prize fight films was urged by Rep. Cochran (D) of Missouri. Rep. Knutson (R) of Minnesota introduced a bill making it unlawful to use the words, "army" or "navy" in connection with a store of mercantile establishment.

Crossing Gates Smashed Again

Guard gates at the P. & L. E. railroad crossing on West Washington street were smashed again at midnight when a large car failed to stop when the gates were lowered and crashed into the gate on the south side of the street and splintered it.

The car was able to get off the track before the approaching train came upon them, the engineer slacking up speed when he saw the accident.

This gate is broken by careless drivers at least once every two or three months. Recently the son of one of the high officials of the railroad company was the offender. The caution of engineers at the crossing is all that has averted several serious accidents but some time we fear there will be serious consequences of the carelessness of some drivers.

Auxiliary To A. O. H. Elects New Officers

Ford Assembly Plant To Resume Normal Capacity

KEARNY, N. J. Dec. 6—About 2,000 former employes of the Ford assembly plant here which has been virtually idle for three months during the change in the Ford car have been notified by the plant to report for work within the next two or three weeks.

Officials of the plant declined to make any announcement but unofficially it was said at the plant that word had been received that the first shipment of parts already had left the Ford factory in Detroit for Kearny. The local plant assembled 50 cars a day when operated at capacity. Between two and three hundred men had been retained as a skeleton force during the temporary shut down.

Board Of Education Elects New Officers At Meeting

T. C. Marshall Succeeds Himself As President Of Board For 1928

Board Authorizes Architect To Advertise For Bids On Finishing Lincoln School

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 6—At a special meeting of the board of education, the last one of the year 1927 conducted in accordance with the law on Monday evening instead of the first Tuesday in the month, new officers were elected at the close of the business session as follows: T. C. Marshall, president and Dr. H. E. Helling vice president. The two new members of the board, Dr. Helling and Blaine Hancher, who were re-elected in the recent elections, were duly sworn into the roll call of the board of education.

At the regular business meeting which preceded the special election meeting the main feature was the decision of the board on the recommendation of the finance committee and Superintendent W. Ray Smith to authorize the contractor to advertise for bids for the completion of the third floor of the Lincoln Junior high school to take care of the new pupils expected to increase the enrollment during the next year. The estimated cost of the work is $45,-022. This includes plumbing, heating and electrical fixtures.

In regard to school taxes, members of the board voted to return a sum of money to one citizen who claimed he was taxed double on his property. In a report from Tax Collector T. A. E. McConaghy it was stated that out of $270,000 taxes he had collected $217,558. More money is expected to be turned in before the year closes.

Members of the Finance committee recommended that as is customary the teachers be paid for their full month on December 23, not waiting until after Cshistmas. The board favored this suggestion.

The members of the board decided to pay the final installment of $500 to Kirkpatrick and Dawson, builders of the Lincoln school which clears up that debt to date.

Ellwood Healthy.

Dr. H. E. Helling of the health commitee reported that not one case of scarlet fever had been known this year among people who had been inoculated with anti-toxin last year. It is planned to go through the same formula this year. Its effest was also noticed on tonsilitis cases, tending to lessen the degree of illness.

The unifors of the high school band were in display, white duck trousers, white gob hats and navy uniforms with a blue and white Lyre on the front. These uniforms will be worn for the first time by the band at the basketball game Friday evening in the gymnasium of the Lincoln school.

Teachers Institute.

Superintendent W. Ray Smith reported that he had been working on the teachers institute project but felt that the board could not spare the money for such a course at present, but planned to accomplish it some time the early part of the new year. A letter from the state institute department requesting an annual report was referred to and the matter will be taken up between Superintendent Smith and the board's attorney.

At the close of the regular meeting a temporary president, J. W. Offutt conducted the new meeting at which time the new officers were elected and the roll call was formally called by Secretary Blaine Hancher after which adjournment was in order.

Weekly Health Talk

Dr. T. B. Appel, State Secretary Of Health, Discusses Heart Disease

"One of the two major problems that are troubling public health officials at this time is heart disease. The increase in deaths from this cause has been too consistently on the upward slant to assume an attitude of indifference toward it," said Dr. Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health, today.

"There are so many predisposing causes to the impairment of the heart that a generalized statement regarding it is difficult to make. However, if bad acting hearts were the worst hearts the question would assume more or less simplicity. But often, just the opposite is true. Hearts, the behavior of which is consciously bad, are frequently suffering only from functional disturbances which may lend themselves readily to treatment. On the other hand, it is the heart which seems to be operating smoothly but which, owing to an organic defect, suddenly snaps, that causes such a high mortality.

"If it were possible to issue regulations against heart disease, if the heart were susceptible to the quarantine procedure, if it were an infection spread by contact and thus capable of control by health officials, heart disease would soon be compelled to give way to public health efforts. But such is not the case.

"Heart disease is an individual matter and to a large extent is to be controlled, if controllable, only by the person involved. Conduct of one's life habits has undoubtedly something to do with the development or non-development of this trouble; frequently it is the sole cause. Rules to protect one against the onslaughts of heart disease, even if it is a resultant condition due to childhood infection, can be stated with more or less assurance. The difficulty lies in the inability to develop in the average man or woman a heart consciousness. 'Everything's moving smoothly, why worry,' is the general, and incidentally, the natural attitude. But that doesn't stop making hearts stop.

"People who are always ill, or think they are, or are afraid they will be, are not an attractive type. There are too many of these trouble hunters in the world today. But it is one thing to be a fanatic and quite another to view your body and the relation of your daily habits to it in a sensible, logical and safe manner.

"A heart complex or any other kind of a fear is damaging. But to realize that you have a heart, and that its proper functioning is in a measure based on how you treat it, is only common sense—and not so common at that.

"Now for some helpful rules:

"1. Do not over-eat.
"2. Do not under-exercise.
"3. Do not over-exercise.
"4. Plenty of sleep.
"5. Be sparing of stimulents. This includes coffee, tea and tobacco.
"6. Don't worry.
"7. Visit your dentist twice a year.
"8. Have a physical examination every year.

"All these rules are important. It will not pay to disregard any of them. But whatever you do, be sure to carry out rule number eight. A visit to your doctor, who is capable of locating deteriorating heart tendencies long before you will ever be conscious of them, may add many years to your life. Take your heart, therefore, to your doctor for examination. And thus thwart its possible intention of taking you on a long, long journey. Have a heart!"

New York Digging Out Of Snow Bank

Death Toll Mounts To Seven As Autos Skid On Icy Streets

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—With the aid of a bright sun and rising temperatures, New York today dug itself out from under six inches of sleet and ice, product of its first storm of the Winter.

The death toll in the metropolitan area rose to seven, five resulting from traffic accidents, involving skidding cars or the combination of head-bowed pedestrians and sleet-blinded drivers.

Telegraph wires in New York and immediate vicinity were seriously damaged and telegraph services from near-by points was delayed in many instances and in a few restored only this afternoon.

Traffic snarls were the city's lot, the weight and icy crust on the fall of sleet hampering removal efforts until past mid-day, when a thaw was well under way. In the Bronx a derailed "L" train and ice on subway third rails created delays, making thousands late getting to work.

Answer Is Filed In Mehard Case

Mrs. Frankel And Mrs. Hosack File Answer, Denying Mehard Case Responsibility

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 6.—In an answer filed in the Mercer county courts on Monday, Dec. 5, Mrs. Herman Frankel and Mrs. Sadie Hosack of Pittsburgh, the former the executrix of the estate of Herman Frankel, and the latter the executrix of the estate of George Hosack, denied any responsibility as trustees of the estate of the late S. S. Mehard of Mercer.

The answers filed are another step in the straightening out of a case filed by Miss Matilda Harvey of this city against the two women and C. B. Mehard of Pittsburgh. In 1919 S. S. Mehard died, leaving an annuity of $500 per year to Miss Harvey. She alleges that the last money she received from the fund was in August, 1926. For the providing of the annuity $34,000 was to be kept in trust from the estate, valued at $1,000,000.

Miss Harvey filed an action asking that C. B. Mehard be removed as trustee of the estate and the Union National Bank of Pittsburgh was named. The bank claims that it has never received the $34,000 which was to provide for the annuity and has asked that C. B. Mehard be forced to file an accounting of the estate.

The husbands of the two women named served during their lives. The widows served as executors, but claim that they have never served in the capacity of trustees. They filed a final account as executors in 1920, which account was accepted by the court.

Girl Nearly Killed By Deer She Shot

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 6.—Miss Frances Bach, returned to her home here last night from a deer hunting trip to the White Hunting Range, near Williamsport, with a deer that nearly caused her death before she finally killed it.

She was with a party of friends on the range Saturday morning when she spied a buck and opened fire. The animal fell and she approached it with knife in hand, when it suddenly arose and made into a thicket. Miss Bach made a lunge for it, grabbed it by the horns and neck and clung fast as the deer raced through brush and past trees. A male hunter who saw her predicament brought the animal down with a shot.

Many Deer Hunters In Clarion Woods

Report 25 Bucks Shot Near Shippensville On First Day Of Season

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 6.—Local hunters are returning from a deer hunting expedition in the woods near Shippensville, report 25 bucks shot in that locality the first day of the season, December 1st.

Although the members of the party listed such experienced woodsmen as C. S. Hinkley, who for 40 years was a devotee of the sport, and Councilman Harry Filson, who is also experienced from many years in woods and stream activities, the party left after their first day experience.

No total of the number of hunters is placed by them but they report the shooting nothing short of a bombardment.

It became so bad several times during the day that they sought cover behind trees and fallen timber. Members of the party tell of having bullets clip out half the trunk of a tree near which they were standing with bullets from the high powered rifles used.

It is reported that the number of buck deer are in excess of any previous season in that locality.

Five New Castle Names On U. S. Roll Of Honor As Winners Of D. S. C.

(By ARTHUR G. WIMER)
(Special News Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6. — The names of Carl O. Kingsbury, Morrison F. Lewis, Charles Cameron, Willis M. Campbell and Aloysius Kmiotek, all of New Castle, as winners of the Distinguished Service Cross are included in the Great Roll of Honor of the American Army just issued by the War Department at Washington. Ten thousand and ten names of individuals awarded military decorations of the United States are included in the volume.

The Distinguished Service Cross is presented by the President only to such persons who, while serving in the United States Army, distinguish themselves by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy.

Carl Kingsbury won the Cross on the morning of April 13, 1918 while serving as a hospital apprentice with the Second Division in France. He displayed commendable action in the immediate care and attention incident to the evacuation of more than 100 casualties following the gas-shell bombardment on the morning of April 13, after he himself had been subjected to the gas. He worked incessantly, disregarding his own symptons, until he had to be evacuated.

Morison F. Lewis was awarded the cross because of bravery displayed near Baspieux, France, September 5, 1918. At that time he was a corporal with the 107th Field Artillery. He directed a detail running a telephone line to an advanced observation post under a heavy artillery and machine gun fire, and when shell-fire rendered the maintenance of the line impossible, directed his detail in the evacuation of wounded infantrymen. Subjecting himself to intense enemy fire he carried to the rear the body of an officer who had been killed by an enemy machine gun.

Charles Cameron won the Cross on July 19, 1918 near Soissons, France. When the infantry of which he was a part was held up by a trench occupied by Germans near Soissons, he voluntarily ran around the trench to its rear, shot and killed one of the enemy, and captured the remainder.

Willis M. Campbell was awarded the Cross of intrepidity displayed in the face of the enemy on September 29, 1918 near Brieulles-sur-Meuse, France. At that time he was a sergeant in Company B, 59th Infantry of the Fourth Division. He made his way forward, in the face of annihilating fire, to the aid of a wounded comrade who was lying exposed to this great hazard and carried him across an open field to safety.

The Cross was presented by the President to Aloysius Kmiotek as a reward for bravery displayed on July 15, 1918 near Grand Ballois Farm, France.

At that time Kmiotek was a private serving in the Third Division and although badly wounded, continued to performing duties as runner, and before he would accept relief notified adjoining relays that his post was disabled.

Launch Battle On Seating Of Smith And Vare

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — Senator George W. Norris (R.) of Nebraska, this afternoon launched the Democratic insurgent battle to bar Senators Elect Frank L. Smith, (R) of Illinois, and William S. Vare (R) of Pennsylvania, at the door of the senate.

The insurgent leader attacked the right of either Smith or Vare to sit in the senate. He denounced their elections as a "battle of millionaires," and declared the senate would have to "haull down the flag and raise the dollar sign above the capital," if they were seated.

Norris charged both men had purchased their senatorial togas, that the contributions to their huge campaign funds were investments on which the doners expected rewards, and that their election credentials were tainted with fraud and corruption.

Thousands Get Savings Checks

Huge Christmas Savings Funds Are Now Being Distributed

Thousands of Lawrence county people were the recipients today of Christmas Savings checks when the bulk of the checks went into the mail. Much of the money will go for Christmas shopping. Part of it will go back into the banks, there to start new Christmas funds, while a lot of it will go to pay household expenses which have been contracted.

BY BURTON RASCOE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—A sign in the window of a Fortieth street lunchroom, just east of Fifth avenue, says: "More tea and coffee for the asking." That's surely quaint phraseology, when you consider the restaurant is in the center of sniffish and inhospitable Manhattan. The food in the place may not be so good, but the proprietor's legend is heartening and provocative.

The scissors grinder of Times Square is a picturesque figure. Attached to his machine is a bugle which belonged to his father, a soldier in the Civil war. He's not allowed to blow it any more, according to some city ordinance, but he gets the business just the same. He grinds the knives of the chefs in all those myriad sandwich shops in the Forties, where rubicund roasts of beef and hearty hams posture in the window to attract the passerby.

The champion lispers of the season, by the way, are two good-looking young bimbos in Billie Burke's costume play, "The Marquise." Their names are Theodore St. John and Rex O'Malley. Why a man with the last mentioned patronym should be cursed with a lisp, I cannot imagine. My wife suggests the lisp is, in both cases, an affectation, but I disagree. Lisping always annoys me so badly I cannot believe anyone would deliberately choose so to ornament his diction.

One of the loiterer's outdoor sports in the metropolis is watching the First avenue restauranteur water the live fish in his show window. Here, on beds of cracked ice, recline the slender shrimp, the oyster, the lobster, the clam. This sort of window display always seems to me a sad ecmeon for the hungry. I never like to think of my dinner in its raw, or native state, but rather as it comes from the hands of the experienced chef.

At the Marguery they serve egg plant orientale. It is a most piquant dish, the vegetable being baked in a cheese sauce, pointed up by a flavoring of chopped fresh mint.

BOY KING REGULAR AT CHURCH

King Michael, of Roumania, goes on with his playing and attends church regularly, just as though there were nothing in the world to worry about. He's seen here on his way to church with his mother, Princess Helene. Princess Irene is on the right and, directly behind her, Prince Paul, of Greece.

VOLANT

The Ladies Home Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will be entertained at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Rohrbaugh on Thursday evening, December 8.

The Kensington will meet at the home of Mrs. K. D. Shaffer on Friday evening, December 9.

The party consisting of R. N. Moose, Frank Gerber, Rev. L. W. Miller, William Allen, Jr., and Ralph and William Sholler returned home Saturday evening after hunting deer at Wharton, Pa. Another group consisting of H. C. Sutherland, C. L. Hunt and W. J. Allen returned home Sunday form Corydon, Pa., where they were enjoying the hunting season. An unusual feature of these groups is that Ralph Sholler, youngest member of the first group, and W. J. Allen, oldest member of the latter, were the lucky ones in each bringing home a deer.

Mrs. L. W. Miller received word on Friday of the sudden death of her brother, who resided in Dayton, O. Mrs. Miller left for that place on Saturday morning to attend the funeral services, which were held on Monday afternoon.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Ella Minnigh, who died last Saturday evening. Mrs. Minnigh was well known in this vicinity and sympathy is extended to the relatives, as she is one who will be sadly missed in all activities.

The railroad station here has a new coat of paint and is now a very pleasing sight.

Mrs. G. L. Whitman is visiting for a few days with friends and relatives in Franklin, Pa.

The Neshannock creek is continuing to recede slowly, owing to the cold weather. Several basements were also rapidly falling and it is hoped that the water will still drop lower.

Leslie McCracken left Friday morning for Franklin, Pa., where he intends to enjoy the hunting season.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Simpson were visitors in Cleveland, O., on Sunday.

Miss Lois Welker was the guest over the week-end at the home of her friend, Elma Wright of New Castle.

Miss Charlotte Daniels returned home Saturday after visiting relatives for a few days in New Castle.

Prayer meeting will be held at the Methodist church on Thursday evening at 7:30 in charge of the pastor, Rev. L. W. Miller.

Plans are being made at the Methodist church for a Christmas entertainment to be held at the church in about three weeks.

The Pearson Brick company here has closed for a few days while some repairing will be done.

There are thousands like her. When people feel constipated and nerves on edge, they take ordinary laxative pills and waters that fail to eliminate the poison wastes which develop dangerous bacteria in the intestines. That's why so many suffer. But just let such people take PARTOLA, the pleasant internal antiseptic and laxative, then watch those symptoms disappear! PRESIDENT SENDS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

COOLIDGE TELLS CONGRESS ABOUT NATION'S CONDITION IN HIS LONGEST MESSAGE

Recommends Strengthening Of Navy; Not For Price Fixing Farm Relief

URGES NO TARIFF TINKERING WORK

Discusses Flood Control And Many Other Problems Of Nation

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—Text of the message of President Calvin Coolidge, to the seventieth congress now in session as delivered at a joint session of the house and senate this afternoon, is as follows:

Members of the Congress:

It is gratifying to report that for the fourth consecutive year the state of the Union in general is good. We are at peace. The country as a whole has had a prosperity never exceeded. Wages are at their highest range, employment is plentiful. Some parts of agriculture and industry have lagged; some localities have suffered from storm and flood. But such losses have been absorbed without serious detriment to our great economic structure. Stocks of goods are moderate and a wholesome caution is prevalent. Rates of interest for industry, agriculture and government have been reduced. Savers and investors are providing capital for new construction in industry and public works. The purchasing power of agriculture has increased. If the people maintain that confidence which they are entitled to have in themselves, in each other, and in America, a comfortable prosperity will continue.

Constructive Economy.

Without constructive economy in government expenditures we should not now be enjoying these results or these prospects. Because we are not now physically at war, some people are disposed to forget that our war debt still remains. The nation must make financial sacrifices, accompanied by a stern self-denial in public expenditures, until we have conquered the disabilities of our public finance. While our obligation to veterans and dependents is large and continuing, the heavier burden of the national debt is being steadily eliminated. At the end of this fiscal year it will be reduced from about $26,600,000,000 to about $17,975,000,000. Annual interest, including war savings, will have been reduced from $1,055,000,000 to $670,000,000. The sacrifices of the people, the economy of the government, are showing remarkable results. They should be continued for the purpose of relieving the nation of the burden of interest and debt and releasing revenue for internal improvements and national development.

Not only the amount, but the rate, of government interest has been reduced. Callable bonds have been refunded and paid, so that during this year the average rate of interest on the present public debt for the first time fell below 4 per cent. Keeping the credit of the nation high is a tremendously profitable operation.

Tax Reduction.

The immediate fruit of economy and the retirement of the public debt is tax reduction. The annual saving of interest between 1925 and 1929 is $212,000,000. Without this no bill to relieve the taxpayers would be worth proposing. The three measures already enacted leave our government revenues where they are not oppressive. Exemptions have been increased until 115,000,000 people make but 2,500,000 individual taxable returns, so that further reduction should be mainly for the purpose of removing inequalities. The secretary of the treasury has recommended a measure which would give us a much better balanced system of taxation and without oppression produce sufficient revenue. It has my complete support.

Unforeseen contingencies requiring money are always arising. Our probable surplus for June 30, 1929 is small. A slight depression in business would greatly reduce our revenue because of our present method of taxation. The people ought to take no selfish attitude of pressing for removing moderate and fair taxes which might produce a deficit. We must keep our budget balanced for each year. That is the corner stone of our national credit, the trifling price we pay to command the lowest rate of interest of any great power in the world. Any surplus can be applied to debt reduction, and debt reduction is tax reduction. Under the present circumstances it would be far better to leave the rates as they are than to enact a bill carrying the peril of a deficit. This is not a problem to be approached in a narrow or partisan spirit. All of those who participate in finding a reasonable solution will be entitled to participate in any credit that accrues from it without regard to party. The Congress has already demonstrated that tax legislation can be removed from purely political consideration into the realm of patriotic business principles.

Any bill for tax reduction should be written by those who are responsible for raising, managing and expending the finances of the government. If special interests, too often selfish, always uninformed of the national needs as a whole, with hired agents using their proposed beneficiaries as engines of propaganda, are permitted to influence the withdrawal of their property from taxation, we shall have a law that is unbalanced and unjust, bad for business, bad for the country, probably resulting in a deficit, with disastrous financial consequences. The constitution has given the members of the Congress sole authority to decide what tax measures shall be presented for approval. While welcoming information from any quarter, the Congress should continue to exercise its own judgment in a matter so vital and important to all the interests of the country as taxation.

National Defense.

Being a nation relying not on force but on fair dealing and good will, to maintain peace with others, we have provided a moderate military force in a form adapted solely to defense. It should be continued with a very generous supply of officers and with the present base of personnel, subject to fluctuations which may be temporarily desirable.

The five-year program for our air forces is in keeping with this same policy and commensurate with the notable contributions of America to the science of aeronautics. The provisions of the law lately enacted are being executed as fast as the practical difficulties of an orderly and stable development permit.

While our army is small, prudence requires that it should be kept in a high state of efficiency and provided with such supplies as would permit of its immediate expansion. The garrison ration has lately been increased. Recommendations for an appropriation of $6,166,000 for new housing made to the previous Congress failed to pass. While most of the army is well housed, some of it which is quartered in war-time training camps is becoming poorly housed. In the past three years $12,533,000 have been appropriated for reconstruction and repairs, and an authorization has been approved of $22,301,000 for new housing, under which $8,070,000 has already been appropriated. A law has also been passed, complying with the request of the war department, allocating funds received from the sale of buildings and land for housing purposes. The work, however, is not completed, so that other appropriations are being recommended.

Our navy is likewise a weapon of defense. We have a foreign commerce and ocean lines of trade unsurpassed by any other country. We have outlying territory in the two great oceans and long stretches of seacoast studded with the richest cities in the world. We are responsible for the protection of a large population and the greatest treasure ever bestowed upon any people. We are charged with an international duty of defending the Panama canal. To meet these responsibilities we need a very substantial sea armament. It needs aircraft development, which is being provided under the five-year program. It needs submarines as soon as the department decides upon the best type of construction. It needs airplane carriers and a material addition to its force of cruisers. We can plan for the future and begin a moderate building program.

This country has put away the old world policy of competitive armaments. It can never be relieved of the responsibility of adequate national defense. We have one treaty secured by an unprecedented attitude of generosity on our part for a limitation in naval armament. After most careful preparation, extending over months, we recently made every effort to secure a three-power treaty to the same end. We were granted much cooperation by Japan, but we were unable to come to an agreement with Great Britain. While the results of the conference were of considerable value, they were mostly of a negative character. We know now that no agreement can be reached which will be inconsistent with a considerable building program on our part. We are ready and willing to continue the preparatory investigations on the general subject of limitation of armaments which have been started under the auspices of the League of Nations.

We have a considerable cruiser tonnage, but a part of it is obsolete. Everyone knew that had a three-power agreement been reached it would have left us with the necessity of continuing our building program. The failure to agree should not cause us to build either more or less than we otherwise should. Any future treaty of limitation will call on us for more ships. We should enter on no competition. We should refrain from no needful program. It should be made clear to all the world that lacking a definite agreement, the attitude of any other country is not to be permitted to alter our own policy. It should especially be demonstrated that propaganda will not cause us to change our course. Where there is no treaty limitation, the size of the navy which America is to have will be solely for America to determine. No outside influence should enlarge it or diminish it. But it should be known to all that our military power holds no threat of aggrandizement. It is a guaranty of peace and security at home, and when it goes abroad it is an instrument for the protection of the legal rights of our citizens under international law, a refuge in time of disorder, and always the servant of world peace. Wherever our flag goes the rights of humanity increase.

Merchant Marine.

The United States government fleet is transporting a large amount of freight and reducing its drain on the treasury. The Shipping board is constantly under pressure, to which it too often yields, to protect private interests, rather than serve the public welfare. More attention should be given to merchant ships as an auxiliary of the navy. The possibility of including their masters and crews in the naval reserve, with some reasonable compensation, should be thoroughly explored as a method of encouraging private operation of shipping. Public operation is not a success. No investigation, of which I have caused several to be made, has failed to report that it could not succeed or to recommend speedy transfer to private ownership. Our exporters and importers are both indifferent about using American ships. It should be our policy to keep our present vessels in repair and dispose of them as rapidly as possible, rather than undertake any new construction. Their operation is a burden on the national treasury, for which we are not receiving sufficient benefits.

Commercial Aviation.

A rapid growth is taking place in aeronautics. The department of commerce has charge of the inspection and licensing system and the construction of national airways. Almost 8,000 miles are already completed and about 4,000 miles more contemplated. Nearly 4,400 miles are now equipped and over 3,000 miles more will have lighting and emergency landing fields by next July. Air mail contracts are expected to cover 24 of these lines. Daily airway flying is nearly 15,000 miles and is expected to reach 25,000 miles early next year.

Flights for other purposes exceed 22,000 miles each day. Over 900 airports, completed and uncompleted, have been laid out. The demand for aircraft has greatly increased. The policy already adopted by the Congress is producing the sound development of this coming industry.

Western Hemisphere Air Mail.

Private enterprise is showing much interest in opening up aviation service to Mexico and Central and South America. We are particularly solicitout to have the United States take a leading part in this development. It is understood that the governments of our sister countries would be willing to cooperate. Their physical features, the undeveloped state of their transportation, make an air service especially adaptable to their usage. The postoffice department should be granted power to make liberal long-term contracts for carrying our mail, and authority should be given to the army and navy to detail aviators and planes to cooperate with private enterprise in establishing such mail service with the consent of the countries concerned. A committee of the cabinet will later present a report on this subject.

Good Roads.

The importance and benefit of good roads is more and more coming to be appreciated. The national government has been making liberal contributions to encourage their construction. The results and benefits have been very gratifying. National participation, however, should be confined to trunk-line systems. The national tax on automobiles is now nearly sufficient to meet this outlay. This tax is very small, and on low-priced cars is not more than $2 or $3 each year.

While the advantage of having good roads is very large, the desire for improved highways is not limited to our own country. It should and does include all the western hemisphere. The principal points in Canada are already accessible. We ought to lend our encouragement in any way we can for more good roads to all the principal points in this hemisphere south of the Rio Grande. It has been our practice to supply these countries with military and naval advisers, when they have requested it, to assist them in national defense. The arts of peace are even more important to them and to us. Authority should be given by law to provide them at their request with engineering advisers for the construction of roads and bridges. In some of these countries already wonderful progress is being made in road building, but the engineering features are often very exacting and the financing difficult. Private interests should look with favor on all reasonable loans sought by these countries to open such main lines of travel.

This general subject has been promoted by the Pan American Congress of Highways, which will convene again at Rio de Janeiro in July, 1928. It is desirable that the Congress should provide for the appointment of delegates to represent the government of the United States.

Cuban Parcel Post.

We have a temporary parcel-post convention with Cuba. The advantage of it is all on our side. During 1926 we shipped 12 times as many parcels, weighing 24 times as much, as we received. This convention was made on the understanding that we would repeal an old law prohibiting the importation of cigars and cigarettes in quantities less than 3,000 enacted in 1866 to discourage smuggling, for which it has long been unnecessary. This law unjustly discriminates against an important industry of Cuba. Its repeal has been recommended by the treasury and postoffice departments. Unless this is done our merchants and railroads will find themselves deprived of this large parcel-post business after the first of next March, the date of the expiration of the convention, which has been extended upon the specific understanding that it would expire at that time unless this legislation was enacted. We purchase large quantities of tobacco made in Cuba. It is not probable that our purchases would be any larger if this law was repealed, while it would be an advantage to many other industries in the United States.

Insular Possessions.

Conditions in the Philippine Islands have been steadily improved. Contentment and good order prevail. Roads, irrigation works, harbor improvements, and public buildings are being constructed. Public education and sanitation have been advanced The government is in a sound financial condition. These immediate results were especially due to the administration of Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood. The six years of his governorship marked a distinct improvement in the islands and rank as one of the outstanding accomplishments of this distinguished man. His death is a loss to the nation and the islands.

Greater progress could be made, more efficiency could be put into administration, if the Congress would undertake to expend, through its appropriating power, all or a part of the customs revenues which are now turned over to the Philippine treasury. The powers of the auditor of the islands also need revision and clarification. The government of the islands is about 98 per cent in the hands of the Filipinos. An extension of the policy of self-government will be hastened by the demonstration on their part of their desire and their ability to carry out cordially and efficiently the provisions of the organic law enacted by the Congress for the government of the islands. It would be well for a committee of the Congress to visit the islands every two years.

A fair degree of progress is being made in Porto Rico. Its agricultural products are increasing; its treasury position, which has given much concern, shows improvement. I am advised by the governor that educational facilities are still lacking. Roads are being constructed, which he represents are the first requisite for building schoolhouses. The loyalty of the island to the United States is exceedingly gratifying. A memorial will be presented to you requesting authority to have the governor elected by the people of Porto Rico. This was never done in the case of our own territories. It is admitted that education outside of the towns is as yet very deficient. Until it has progressed further the efficiency of the government and the happiness of the people may need the guiding hand of an appointed governor. As it is not contemplated that any change should be made immediately, the general subject may well have the thoughtful study of the Congress.

Panama Canal.

The number of commercial ships passing through the Panama canal has increased from 3,967 in 1923 to 5,475 in 1927. The total amount of tolls turned into the treasury is over $166,000,000, while all the operations of the canal have yielded a surplus of about $80,000,000. In order to provide additional storage of water and give some control over the floods of the Chagres river, it is proposed to erect a dam to cost about $12,000,000 at Alhajuela. It will take some five years to complete this work.

Agriculture.

The past year has seen a marked improvement in the general condition of agriculture. Production is better balanced and without acute shortage or heavy surplus. Costs have been reduced and the average output of the worker increase. The level of farm prices has risen, while others have fallen, so that the purchasing power of the farmer is approaching a normal figure. The individual farmer is entitled to great credit for the progress made since 1921. He has adjusted his production and through cooperative organizations and other methods improved his marketing. He is using authenticated facts and employing sound methods which other industries are obliged to use to secure stability and prosperity. The old-fashioned haphazard system is being abandoned, economics are being applied to ascertain the best adapted unit of land, diversification is being promoted, and scientific methods are being used in production, and business principles in marketing.

Agriculture has not fully recovered from postwar depression. The fact is that economic progress never marches forward in a straight line. It goes in waves. One part goes ahead, while another halts and another recedes. Everybody wishes agriculture to prosper. Any sound and workable proposal to help the farmer will have the earnest support of the government. Their interests are not all identical. Legislation should assist as many producers in as many regions as possible. It should be the aim to assist the farmer to work out his own salvation socially and economically. No plan will be of any permanent value to him which does not leave him standing on his own foundation.

In the past the government has spent vast sums to bring land under cultivation. It is apparent that this has reached temporarily the saturation point. We have had a surplus of production and a poor market for land, which has only lately shown signs of improvement. The main problem which is presented for solution is one of dealing with a surplus of production. It is useless to propose a temporary expedient. What is needed is permanency and stability. Government price fixing is known to be unsound and bound to result in disaster. A government subsidy would work out in the same way. It can not be sound for all of the people to hire some of the people to produce a crop which neither the producers nor the rest of the people want.

Price fixing and subsidy will both increase the surplus, instead of diminishing it. Putting the government directly into business is merely a combination of subsidy and price fixing aggravated by political pressure. These expedients would lead logically to telling the farmer by law what and how much he should plant and where he should plant it, and what and how much he should sell and where he should sell it. The most effective means of dealing with surplus crops is to reduce the surplus acreage. While this can not be done by the individual farmer, it can be done through the organizations already in existence, through the information published by the department of agriculture, and especially through banks and others who supply credit refusing to finance an acreage manifestly too large.

It is impossible to provide by law for an assured success and prosperity for all those who engage in farming. If acreage becomes overextended, the government can not assume responsibility for it. The government can, however, assist cooperative associations and other organizations in orderly marketing and handling a surplus clearly due to weather and seasonal conditions, in order to save the producer from preventable loss. While it is probably impossible to secure this result at a single step, and much will have to be worked out by trial and rejection, a beginning could be made by setting up a federal board or commission of able and experienced men in marketing, granting equal advantages under this board to the various agricultural commodities and sections of the country, giving encouragement to the cooperative movement in agriculture, and providing a revolving loan fund at a moderate rate of interest for the necessary financing. Such legislation would lay the foundation for a permanent solution of the surplus problem.

This is not a proposal to lend more money to the farmer, who is already fairly well financed, but to lend money temporarily to experimental marketing associations which will no doubt ultimately be financed by the regularly established banks, as were the temporary operations of the War Finance corporation. Cooperative marketing especially would be provided with means of buying or building physical properties.

The national government has almost entirely relieved the farmer from income taxes by successive tax reductions, but state and local taxes have increased, putting on him a grievous burden. A policy of rigid economy should be applied to state and local expenditures. This is clearly within the legislative domain of the states. The federal government has also improved our banking structure and system of agricultural credits. The farmer will be greatly benefited by similar action in many states. The department of agriculture is undergoing changes in organizations in order more completely to separate the research and regulatory divisions, that each may be better administered. More emphasis is being placed on the research program, not only by enlarging the appropriations for state experiment stations but by providing funds for expanding the research work of the department. It is in this direction that much future progress can be expected.

The Protective Tariff.

The present tariff rates supply the national treasury with well over $600,000,000 of annual revenue. Yet, about 65 per cent of our imports come in duty free. Of the remaining 35 per cent of imports on which duties are laid about 23 per cent consists of luxuries and agricultural products, and the balance of about 12 per cent, amounting to around $560,000,000, is made up of manufactures and merchandise. As no one is advocating any material reduction in the rates on agriculture or luxuries, it is only the comparatively small amount of about $560,000,000 of other imports that are really considered in any discussion of reducing tariff rates. While this amount, duty free, would be large enough seriously to depress many lines of business in our own country, it is of small importance when spread over the rest of the world.

It is often stated that a reduction of tariff rates on industry would benefit agriculture. It would be interesting to know to what commodities it is thought this could be applied. Everything the farmer uses in farming is already on the free list. Nearly everything he sells is protected. It would seem to be obvious that it is better for the country to have the farmer raise food to supply the domestic manufacturer than the foreign manufacturer. In one case our country would have only the farmer; in the other it would have the farmer and the manufacturer. Assuming that Europe would have more money if it sold us larger amounts of merchandise, it is not certain it would consume more food, or, if it did, that its purchases would be made in this country. Undoubtedly it would resort to the cheapest market, which is by no means ours. The largest and best and most profitable market for the farmer in the world is our own domestic market. Any great increase in manufactured imports means the closing of our own plants. Nothing could be worse for agriculture.

Probably no one expects a material reduction in the rates on manufactures while maintaining the rates on agriculture. A material reduction in either would be disastrous to the farmer. It would mean a general shrinkage of values, a deflation of prices, a reduction of wages, a general depression carrying our people down to the low standard of living in our competing countries. It is obvious that this would not improve but destroy our market for imports, which is best served by maintaining our present high purchasing power under which in the past five years imports have increased 63 per cent.

Farm Loan System

It is exceedingly important that the federal land and joint stock land banks should furnish the best possible service for agriculture. Certain joint stock banks have fallen into improper and unsound practices, resulting in the indictment of the officials of three of them. More money has been provided for examinations, and at the instance of the treasury rules and regulations of the federal farm board have been revised. Early last May three of its members resigned. Their places were filled with men connected with the War Finance Corporation, Eugene Meyer being designated as farm loan commissioner. The new members have demonstrated their ability in the field of agricultural finance in the extensive operations of the War Finance Corporation. Three joint stock banks have gone into receivership. It is necessary to preserve the public confidence in this system in order to find a market for their bonds. A recent flotation was made at a record low rate of four per cent. Careful supervision is absolutely necessary to protect the investor and enable these banks to exercise their chief function in serving agriculture.

Muscle Shoals

The last year has seen considerable changes in the problem of Muscle Shoals. Development of other methods show that nitrates can probably be produced at less cost than by the use of hydro-electric power. Extensive investigation made by the Department of Agriculture indicates that the nitrate plants on this project are of little value for national defense and can probably be disposed of within two years. The oxidation part of the plants, however, should be retained indefinitely. This leaves this project mostly concerned with power. It should, nevertheless, continue to be dedicated to agriculture. It is probable that this desire can be best served by disposing of the plant and applying the revenues received from it to research for methods of more economical production of concentrated fertilizer and to demonstrations and other methods of stimulating its use on the farm.

Flood Control

For many years the federal government has been building a system of dikes along the Mississippi river for protection against high water. During the past season the lower states were overcome by a most disastrous flood. Many thousands of square miles were inundated, a great many lives were lost, much livestock was drowned, and a very heavy destruction of property was inflicted upon the inhabitants. The American Red Cross at once went to the relief of the stricken communities. Appeals for contributions have brought in over $17,000,000. The federal government has provided services, equipment and supplies probably amounting to about $7,000,000 more. Between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 in addition have been provided by local railroads, the states and their political units. Credits have been arranged by the farm loan board and three emergency finance corporations with a total capital of $3,000,000 have insured additional resources to the extent of $12,000,000. Through these means the 700,000 people in the flooded areas have been adequately supported. Provision has been made to care for those in need until after the 1st of January.

The engineer corps of the army has contracted to close all breaks in the dike system before the next season of high water. A most thorough and elaborate survey of the whole situation has been made and embodied in a report with recommendations for future flood control, which will be presented to the Congress. The carrying out of their plans will necessarily extend over a series of years. They will call for a raising and strengthening of the dike system with provision for emergency spillways and improvements for the benefit of navigation.

Under the present law the land adjacent to the dikes has paid one-third of the cost of their construction. This has been a most extraordinary concession from the plan adopted in relation to irrigation, where the general rule has been that the land benefited should bear the entire expense. It is true, of course, that the troublesome waters do not originate on the land to be reclaimed, but it is also true that such waters have a right-of-way through that section of the country and the land there is charged with that easement. It is the land of this region that is to be benefited. To say that it is unable to bear any expense o freclamation is the same thing as saying that it is not worth reclaiming. Because of expenses incurred and charges already held against this land, it seems probable that some revision will have to be made concerning the proportion of cost which it should bear. But it is extremely important that it should pay enough so that those requesting improvements will be charged with some responsibility for their cost, and the neighborhood where works are constructed have a pecuniary interest in preventing waste and extravagance and securing a wise and economical expenditure of public funds.

It is necessary to look upon this emergency as a national disaster. It has been so treated from its inception. Our whole people have provided with great generosity for its relief. Most of the departments of the federal government have been engaged in the same effort. The governments of the afflicted areas, both state and municipal, cannot be given too high praise for the courageous and helpful way in which they have come to the rescue of the people. If the sources directly chargeable cannot meet the demand, the national government should not fail to provide generous relief. This, however, does not mean restoration. The government is not an insurer of its citizens against the hazard of the elements. We shall always have flood and drought, heat and cold, earthquake and wind, lightning and tidal wave, which are all too constant in their afflictions. The government does not undertake to reimburse its citizens for loss and damage incurred under such circumstances. It is chargeable, however, with the rebuilding of public works and the humanitarian duty of relieving its citizens from distress.

The people in the flooded area and their representatives have approached this problem in the most generous and broad-minded way. They should be met with a like spirit on the part of the national government. This is all one country. The public needs of each part must be provided for by the public at large. No required relief should be refused. An adequate plan should be adopted to prevent a recurrence of this disaster in order that the people may restore to productivity and comfort their fields and their towns.

Legislation by this Congress should be confined to our principal and most pressing problem, the lower Mississippi, considering tributaries only so far as they materially affect the main flood problem. A definite federal program relating to our waterways was proposed when the last Congress authorized a comprehensive survey of all the important streams of the country in order to provide for their improvement, including flood control, navigation, power and irrigation. Other legislation should wait pending a report on this survey. The recognized needs of the Mississippi should not be made a vehicle for carrying other projects. All proposals for development should stand on their own merits. Any other method would result in ill-advised conclusions, great waste of money and instead of promoting would delay the orderly and certain utilization of our water resources.

Very recently several of the New England states have suffered somewhat similarly from heavy rainfall and high water. No reliable estimate of damage has yet been computed, but it is very large to private and public property. The Red Cross is generously undertaking what is needed for immediate relief, repair and reconstruction of houses, restocking of domestic animals and food, clothing and shelter. A considerable sum of money will be available through the regular channels in the Department of Agriculture for reconstruction of highways. It may be necessary to grant special aid for this purpose. Complete reports of what is required will undoubtedly be available early in the session.

Inland Navigation

The Congress in its last session authorized the general improvements necessary to provide the Mississippi waterway system with better transportation. Stabilization of the levels of the Great Lakes and their opening to the sea by an effective shipway remain to be considered. Since the last session the board of engineers of the War Department has made a report on the proposal for a canal through the state of New York and the joint board of engineers, representing Canada and the United States, has finished a report on the St. Lawrence river. Both of these boards conclude that the St. Lawrence project is cheaper, affords a more expeditious method of placing western products in European markets, and will cost less to operate. The State Department has requested the Canadian government to negotiate treaties necessary to provide for this improvement. It will also be necessary to secure an agreement with Canada to put in works necessary to prevent fluctuation in the levels of the Great Lakes.

Legislation is desirable for the construction of a dam at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado river, primarily as a method of flood control and irrigation. A secondary result would be a considerable power development and a source of domestic water supply for southern California. Flood control is clearly a national problem and water supply is a government problem, but every other possibility should be exhausted before the federal government becomes engaged in the power business. The states which are interested ought to reach mutual agreement. This project is in reality their work. If they wish the federal government to undertake it, they should not hesitate to make the necessary concessions to each other. This subject is fully discussed in the annual report of the secretary of the interior. The Columbia river basin project is being studied and will be one to be considered at some future time.

The Inland Waterways Corporation is proving successful and especially beneficial to agriculture. A survey is being made to determine its future needs. It has never been contemplated that if inland rivers were opened to navigation it would then be necessary for the federal government to provide the navigation. Such a request is very nearly equivalent of a declaration that their navigation is not profitable, that the commodities which they are to carry can be taken at a cheaper rate by some other method, in which case the hundreds of millions of dollars proposed to be expended for opening rivers to navigation would not only be wasted, but would entail further constant expenditures to carry the commodities of private persons for less than cost.

The policy is well established that the government should open public highways on land and on water, but for use of the public in their private capacity. It has put on some demonstration barge lines, but always with the expectation that if they prove profitable they would pass into private hands and if they do not prove profitable they will be withdrawn. The problems of transportation over inland waterways should be taken up by private enterprise, so that the public will have the advantage of competition in service. It is expected that some of our lines can be sold, some more demonstration work done, and that with the completion of the Ohio project a policy of private operation can be fully developed.

Prohibition

After more than two generations of constant debate our country adopted a system of national prohibition under all the solemnities involved in an amendment to the federal constitution. In obedience to this mandate Congress and the states, with one or two notable exceptions, have passed required laws for its administration and enforcement. This imposes upon the citizenship of the country, and especially on all public officers, not only the duty to enforce, but the obligation to observe the sanctions of this constitutional provision and its resulting laws. If this condition could be secured, all question concerning prohibition would cease. The federal government is making every effort to accomplish these results through careful organization, large appropriations and administrative effort. Smuggling has been greatly cut down, the larger sources of supply for illegal sale have been checked, and by means of injunction and criminal prosecution the process of enforcement is being applied. The same vigilance on the part of local governments would render these efforts much more successful. The federal authorities propose to discharge their obligation for enforcement to the full extent of their ability.

The Negro

History does not anywhere record so much progress made in the same length of time as that which has been accomplished by the Negro race in the United States since the Emancipation Proclamation. They have come up from slavery to be prominent in education, the professions, art, science, agriculture, banking and commerce. It is estimated that 50,000 of them are on the government payrolls, drawing about $50,000,000 each year. They have been the recipients of presidential appointments and their professional ability has arisen to a sufficiently high plane so that they have been intrusted with the entire management and control of the great veterans' hospital at Tuskegee, where their conduct has taken high rank. They have shown that they have been worthy of all the encouragement which they have received. Nevertheless, they are too often subjected to thoughtless and inconsiderate treatment, unworthy alike of the white or colored races. They have especially been made the target of the foul crime of lynching. For several years these acts of unlawful violence have been diminishing. In the last year they have shown an increase. Every principle of order and law and liberty is opposed to this crime. The Congress should enact any legislation it can under the constitution to provide for its elimination.

American Indian

The condition of the American Indian has much improved in recent years. Full citizenship was bestowed upon them on June 2, 1924, and appropriations for their care and advancement have been increased. Still there remains much to be done.

Notable increases in appropriations for the several major functions performed by the Department of the Interior on behalf of the Indians have marked the last five years. In that time successive annual increases in appropriations for their education total $1,804,325; for medical care, $578,000, and for industrial advancement, $205,000; or $2,582,325 more than would have been spent in the same period on the basis of appropriations for 1923 and the preceding years.

The needs along health, educational, industrial and social lines, however, are great, and the budget estimates for 1929 include still further increases for Indian administration.

To advance the time when the Indians may become self-sustaining, it is my belief that the federal government should continue to improve the facilities for their care and as rapidly as possible turn its responsibility over to the states.

Coal

Legislation authorizing a system of fuel administration and the appointment by the President of a board of mediation and conciliation in case of actual or threatened interruption of production is needed. The miners themselves are now seeking information and action from the government which could readily be secured through such a board. It is believed that a thorough investigation and reconsideration of this proposed policy by the Congress will demonstrate that this recommendation is sound and should be adopted.

Petroleum Conservation

The national government is undertaking to join in the formation of a co-operative committee of lawyers, engineers and public officers to consider what legislation by the states or by the Congress can be adopted for the preservation and conservation of our supply of petroleum. This has come to be one of the main dependencies for transportation and power so necessary to our agricultural and industrial life. It is expected the report of this committee will be available for later congressional action. Meantime, the requirement that the secretary of the interior should make certain leases of land belonging to the Osage Indians, in accordance with the act of March 3, 1921, should be repealed. The authority to lease should be discretionary, in order that the property of the Indians may not be wasted and the public suffer a future lack of supply.

Alien Property

Under treaty the property held by the alien property custodian was to be retained until suitable provision had been made for the satisfaction of American claims. While still protecting the American claimants, in order to afford every possible accommodation to the nationals of the countries whose property was held, the Congress has made liberal provision for the return of a large part of the property. All trusts under $10,000 were returned in full and partial returns were made on the others. The total returned was approximately $350,000,000.

There is still retained, however, about $250,000,000. The mixed claims commission has made such progress in the adjudication of claims that legislation can now be enacted providing for the return of the property, which should be done under conditions which will protect our government and our claimants. Such a measure will be proposed and I recommend its enactment.

Railroad Consolidation

In order to increase the efficiency of transportation and decrease its cost to the shipper, railroad consolidation must be secured. Legislation is needed to simplify the necessary procedure to secure such agreements and arrangements for consolidation, always under the control and with the approval of the interstate commerce commission. Pending this, no adequate or permanent reorganization can be made of the freight rate structure. Meantime, both agriculture and industry are compelled to wait for needed relief. This is purely a business question, which should be stripped of all local and partisan bias and decided on broad principles and its merits in order to promote the public welfare. A large amount of new construction and equipment, which will furnish employment for labor and markets for commodities of both factory and farm, wait on the decision of this important question. Delay is holding back the progress of our country.

Many of the same arguments are applicable to the consolidation of the Washington traction companies.

Veterans

The care which this country has lavished on its veterans is known of all men. The yearly outlay for this purpose is about $750,000,000, or about the cost of running the federal government, outside of the Poseoffice Department, before the World War. The Congress will have before it recommendations of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and other like organizations, which should receive candid consideration. We should continue to foster our system of compensation and rehabilitation and provide hospitals and insurance. The magnitude of the undertaking is already so large that all requests calling for further expenditure should have the most searching scrutiny. Our present system of pensions is already sufficiently liberal. It was increased by the last Congress for Civil and Spanish War veterans and widows and for some dependents.

It has been suggested that the various governmental agencies now dealing with veterans' relief be consolidated. This would bring many advantages. It is recommended that the proper committees of the Congress make a thorough survey of this subject, in order to determine if legislation to secure such consolidation is desirable.

Education

For many years it has been the policy of the federal government to encourage and foster the cause of education. Large sums of money are annually appropriated to carry on vocational training. Many millions go into agricultural schools. The general subject is under the immediate direction of a commissioner of education. While this subject is strictly a state and local function, it should continue to have the encouragement of the national government. I am still of the opinion that much good could be accomplished through the establishment of a Department of Education and Relief, into which would be gathered all of these functions under one directing member of the Cabinet.

Department of Labor

Industrial relations have never been more peaceful. In recent months they have suffered from only one serious controversy. In all others difficulties have been adjusted, both management and labor wishing to settle controversies by friendly agreement rather than by compulsion. The welfare of women and children is being especially guarded by our Department of Labor. Its children's bureau is in co-operation with 26 state boards and 30 juvenile courts.

Through its bureau of immigration it has been found that medical examination abroad has saved prospective immigrants from much hardship. Some further legislation to provide for reuniting families when either the husband or the wife is in this country, and granting more freedom for the migration of the North American Indian tribes is desirable.

The United States employment service has enabled about 2,000,000 men and women to gain paying positions in the last fiscal year. Particular attention has been given to assisting men past middle life and in providing field labor for harvesting agricultural crops. This has been made possible in part through the service of the federal board for vocational education, which is co-operating with the states in a program to increase the technical knowledge and skill of the wage earner.

Public Buildings

Construction is under way in the country and ground has been broken for carrying out a public building program for Washington. We have reached a time when not only the conveniences but the architectural beauty of the public buildings of the Capital City should be given much attention. It will be necessary to purchase further land and provide the required continuing appropriations.

Historical Celebrations

Provision is being made to commemorate the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Suggestion has been made for the construction of a memorial road leading from the Capital to Mount Vernon, which may well have the consideration of the Congress, and the commission intrusted with preparations for the celebration will undoubtedly recommend publication of the complete writings of Washington and a series of writings by different authors relating to him.

February 25, 1929, is the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the capture of Fort Sackville, at Vincennes, in the state of Indiana. This eventually brought into the Union what was known as the Northwest Territory, embracing the region north of the Ohio river between the Alleghenies and the Mississippi river. This expedition was led by George Rogers Clark. His heroic character and the importance of his victory are too little known and understood. They gave us not only this Northwest Territory but by means of that the prospect of reaching the Pacific. The state of Indiana is proposing to dedicate the site of Fort Sackville as a national shrine. The federal government may well make some provision for the section under its own management of a fitting memorial at that point.

Foreign Relations

It is the policy of the United States to promote peace. We are a peaceful people and committed to the settling of disputes by amicable adjustment rather than by force. We have believed that peace can best be secured by a faithful observance on our part of the principles of international law, accompanied by patience and conciliation, and requiring of others a like treatment for ourselves. We have lately had some differences with Mexico relative to the injuries inflicted upon our nationals and their property within that country. A firm adherence to our rights and a scrupulous respect for the sovereignty of Mexico both in accordance with the law of nations, coupled with patience and forbearance, it is hoped will resolve all our differences without interfering with the friendly relationship between the two governments.

We have been compelled to send naval and marine forces to China to protect the lives and property of our citizens. Fortunately their simple presence there has been sufficient to prevent any material loss of life. But there has been considerable loss of property. That unhappy country is torn by factions and revolutions which bid fair to last for an indefinite period. Meanwhile we are protecting our citizens and stand ready to co-operate with any government which may emerge in promoting the welfare of the people of China. They have always had our friendship, and they should especially merit our consideration in these days of their distraction and distress.

We were confronted by similar condition on a small scale in Nicaragua. Our marine and naval forces protected our citizens and their property and prevented a heavy sacrifice of life and the destruction of that country by a reversion to a state of revolution. Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of war, was sent there to cooperate with our diplomatic military officers in effecting a settlement between the contending parties. This was done on the assurance that we would co-operate in restoring a state of peace where our rights would be protected by giving our assistance in the conduct of the next presidential election which occurs in a few months. With this assurance the population returned to their peace-time pursuits, with the exception of some small roving bands of outlaws.

In general our relations with other countries can be said to have improved within the year. While having a due regard for our own affairs, the protection of our own rights and the advancement of our own people, we can afford to be liberal toward others. Our example has become of great importance in the world. It is recognized that we are independent, detached, and can and do take a disinterested position in relation to international affairs. Our charities embrace the earth. Our trade is far-flung. Our financial favors are widespread. Those who are peaceful and law-abiding realize that not only have they nothing to fear from us, but that they can rely on our moral support. Proposals for promoting the peace of the world will have careful consideration. But we are not a people who are always seeking for a sign. We know that peace comes from honesty and fair dealing, from moderation and a generous regard for the rights of others. The heart of the nation is more important than treaties. A spirit of generous consideration is a more certain defense than great armaments. We should continue to promote peace by our example, and fortify it by such international covenants against war as we are permitted under our constitution to make.

American Progress

Our country has made much progress. But it has taken, and will continue to take, much effort. Competition will be keen, the temptation to selfishness and arrogance will be severe, the provocations to deal harshly with weaker people will be many. All of these are embraced in the opportunity for true greatness. They will be overbalanced by co-operation, by generosity and a spirit of neighborly kindness. The forces of the universe are taking humanity in that direction. In doing good, in walking humbly, in sustaining its own people, in ministering to other nations, America will work out its own mighty destiny.

PULASKI NEWS

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church elected the following officers recently: president, Miss Dorothy Strain; vice president, Marshal Scott; secretary, Mrs. Lloyd Rodgers; treasurer, Arthur Meek. A contest which was held with Arthur Meek and Joseph Bosack as captains, closed with a banquet Saturday evening in the Presbyterian church, when the losing side banqueted the winning side, of which Arthur Meek, as captain, won the honors. The dining room and tables were beautifully decorated in red and white, covers being arranged for over 60. Clark Rodgers, in his humorous way, introduced Frederick Taylor Jr. as toastmaster of the evening, who won much applause by his genial manner. Special music was furnished by Donald Gibson on the saxaphone and Clark Rodgers on the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis and Arthur Davis of New Castle, and Miss Chloe Davis of Youngstown were callers on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Laurance Mitcheltree.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Freizen of Youngstown were recent guests of their cousin, Miss Margaret Kane.

Boys who have been honored with this office are: John Boston, Troop 1; Jack Stevenson, Troop 18; Theodore Ropp, New Bedford; Lewis West, Troop 2; Orville Hoover, Troop 2; Joe Pearson, Troop 1; Jack Stone, Troop 1; James Metzler, Troop 1; Paul Wilson, Troop 4; Bob Wilson, Troop 4; George McCracken, Troop 15; Warren Van Horn, Troop 15; James Charbonnier, Troop 13; Trenton Eckles, Troop 13; John Rudolph, Troop 17; Frank Fiorreli, Troop 5; George Winter, Troop 18; Bob Jamison, Troop 18; Melvin Moorehouse, New Bedford, and Bill Wheeler, Troop 18.

These boys were selected, states Scout Executive J. Lee Calahan, because of the fine record which they have made in scouting and because they are believed to be capable. The troop will be drilled in panic prevention, fire drill, first aid, emergency work, fancy drilling, and other interesting phases of scouting.

Before the entire organization is completed, Scoutmaster Round would like to have a meeting with the officers Tuesday evening, December 6, at 7:30 in Boy Scout headquarters, at which time he plans to outline the formation of this troop.

MERRY ROW IS WAGING OVER CONVENTION CITY

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Republican harmony, which has been more of a theory than a condition anyway, sustained a jarring shock today when the Republican national committee met to select a 1928 convention city and make other decisions affecting the forthcoming campaign.

The good-natured rivalry that has existed between the various cities, notably San Francisco, Detroit and Kansas City, the three principal contenders, disappeared overnight and when the committee assembled this morning there were chips on a good many shoulders.

A terrific row has been kicked up over the efforts of William M. Butler, President Coolidge's personally selected chairman of the committee, to send the convention to Kansas City. His activities on behalf of Kansas City were keenly resented by the far western members of the committee, who already have a third of the committee pledged for San Francisco, and there was no less resentment among the Detroiters, who have sent their mayor-elect to Washington to impress upon the committee how badly Michigan wants the convention.

Butler gave no reason for his activity in behalf of Kansas City, other than to say he felt "the best interests of the party would be served" by taking the convention there.

He disclaimed to speak for the White House, as President Coolidge had previously informed inquirers that it was a matter of indifference to him where the convention met.

The immediate effect of the ill-feeling aroused by Butler's activities may be a combination of all of the other contending cities to defeat Kansas City at all costs.

Butler, however, has instructed the committee members from the south to support Kansas City.

The southerners are always amenable to party dictation and almost invariably follow the administration. Combined with the mid-westerners who are naturally boosting for Kansas City, they may prevail, but if they do it will be only after a hot fight and at the cost of considerable ill-feeling.

William H. Crocker, California committeeman, who came to Washington with a certified check for $25,000 and some 30-odd pledges in his pocket, said today he was "shocked" by Butler's action in ordering the southern members to vote for Kansas City. He had been assured as long as last June, he said, that Butler would be neutral.

As matters stood this morning, the far west will support San Francisco solidly, and will draw support from a number of eastern states.

Officials Working On Clues Found In Murder Case

Dante Diemehele, whose body was found near New Bedford over a week ago and who was buried here last Saturday, was taken to the spot where his body was found from Youngstown, according to information which has been secured by officials.

He is said to have had a large amount of money in his possession.

Officials working on the case are said to have clues that may lead to the arrest of the assassins. Diemehele was found with his throat cut in a field near New Bedford.

Pollock School Planning Music For Christmas

Children In School Have Natural Bent For Music In This School

Music will form a principal part of the Christmas programs that are being planned at the Pollock school as in all the other schools of the city, says T. W. Johns, director of music in the city schools.

In the Pollock school music is of special interest for the reason that a large majority of all the pupils are descendants of a nationality well known for their love of music and their musical ability. This can be known for a fact by listening to the grades singing two-part music under the direction of Miss Margaret Sankey as they practice their Christmas program.

The program at the Pollock school will consist of a little Christmas play from every grade and recitations and musical selections. Among the musical selections will be the carols Silent Night, Hark the Herald Angels Sing, Little Child of Bethlehem. Two little girls will sing solos, Genevieve Thomas will sing "Christmas Song" and Holy Night, while Rosa Adino will sing The Christmas Baby.

The play that has been chosen for the Christmas is "Santa Claus" by grade 3A or perhaps "Santa's Volunteers" by grade 6. Other plays that will be given during the week are "Visit to Santa" by grade 4 and "Santa Claus at School" by the fifth grade. Miss Mary Richards, teacher of dramatics in the school, will have charge of the plays and recitations.

The week before Christmas, Peter Grittie has arranged to show the stereopticon slides of "The Other Wise Man" and give the story. This past week the slides for the story "The Birds' Christmas" was used as a visual aid in the English class and the "Life of Washington" in the history class. In preparation of the slides in the literature class all read the story and in the library were given work on the story.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

A TALE OF A TAIL

Rattler was beautiful in his own peculiar way, yet one would scarcely have expected him to be conceited, he who went through life in such a humbled-to-the-ground, slinking sort of way.

"My, but you're a regular dude, old fellow!" remarked Peter and chuckled. "And you don't need to search for a mirror every time you wish to admire yourself. All you have to do is to raise your head and you can view yourself from top to bottom, which is more than most of us can do."

"I can't see my handsome head and my bright, glittering eye, though. When I wish to gaze upon these I glide to a brook, and there I am reflected in its surface. Why, I could sway over the glassy surface for hours, so delighted am I with my own grace. Say, two-legs, what is a dude?" Serpent was curious.

"Oh, a fellow who pays great attention to his looks, who never walks abroad until he is dressed in the latest fashion, who takes great joy in looking at himself because he is handsomer than anybody else." Peter laughed. "You don't hate yourself do you, Rattler?"

"Hate myself? Not I!" hissed the serpent. "I couldn't afford to, in the first place, with every creature's hand and foot and claw against me. I have to have one friend in the world, one who thinks I am all that is good and fine, even if that friend is only myself. And if that is being a dude I am one, all right. Say, two-legs, how do you like my rattles? Bet you can't tell how old I am."

"I COULD SWAY OVER THE GLASSY SURFACE FOR HOURS, SO DELIGHTED AM I WITH MY OWN GRACE!"

"Your rattles?" repeated Peter, a bit puzzled, for you see he had never been so close to a rattlesnake before, and really didn't know much about him. "Oh, you mean those rings on your tail? Why, as far as I know, they are very fine rattles—look like a lot of black thimbles strung together, one inside the other. Loose-jointed thing—your tail, isn't it? What are those rattles good for, anyhow?"

"To rattle with, of course!" hissed serpent, scornful at the boys ignorance. "Scares folks away, and so protects their lives and my own, too. And my rattles amuse my babies—the little crawlers just love to hear me make a noise like this!" Serpent shook the loose rings upon the end of his tail until they made that queer buzz that made Peter's hair want to stand straight up on the top of his head.

Burns-Sinclair To Stand Trial, Is Court Belief

Belief Prevails Legal Argument Will Fail To Save Sinclair And Burns

TRIAL MAY TAKE ABOUT TEN DAYS

Justice Siddons Asking Opposing Counsel How Long Trial Would Take

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Opinion prevailed in the court room at noon today that the tidal wave of highly technical legal argument launched by defense counsel will fail to save Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, and William J. Burns, the detective, from standing trial for criminal contempt.

Justice Frederick L. Siddons, after the fourth hour of defense argument, interrupted to ask how long opposing counsel thought the contempt trial would run should the court decide to hear the district attorney's witnesses rather than dismiss the proceedings for lack of cause as requested.

Sinclair, Burns and four of their associates have been hailed into court by District Attorney Peyton Gordon to explain why Sinclair's action in imposing an "improper surveillance" of Burns detectives over the jury that tried the oil man and former secretary of interior Albert B. Fall for conspiracy should not make them all liable to citation for contempt of court.

Gordon asserted that, recognizing the right of attorneys for each of the six defendants to cross-examine every witness, the thought the trial might run ten days.

Charles A. Douglas, Burns' lawyer, said he thought that "a very modest estimate."

George Hoover, representing Sinclair, remarked: "If your honor should rule against our motion to dismiss, I don't see how the trial could possibly take ten days."

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—A pledge made more than two years ago by Clarence Darrow, famous criminal lawyer, in which he agreed to aid in the defense of Bishop H. H. Haley, negro, of St. James church here, prevented Darrow from leaving for Cincinnati to testify as a character witness for George Remus, on trial for murder, it was announced here today.

Darrow appeared in the court of Judge Joseph B. David here today when Bishop Haley was arraigned on immorality charges preferred by a young boy. Darrow aided in selection of a jury.

Adopt New Method Of Marking Reports Of School Pupils

Parents of boys and girls in the elementary schools of the city will notice on the reports of the children this period and in the succeeding periods, ar different method of marking the grade of the students.

In explanation of the new marks, Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent, said today:

In the future the pupils of the elementary schools of the city of New Castle will receive grades only in the major subjects or core subjects of the curriculum. In the case of the other subjects it will merely be a question of passing or not passing. Beginning with the second semester and in harmony with general educational practice, letters will be used instead of percentages—A, representing "highest"; B, "high"; C, "middle"; D, "low", and E, "failure".

These measures have been adopted in an effort to simplify the pupils' reports and the system of grading.

Grades will be reported as follows: First grade, reading; second grade, reading, writing, spelling; third grade, reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic; fourth grade, English (reading, writing, spelling, composition), arithmetic, geography; fifth grade, English (reading, writing, selling, composition), arithmetic, geography; sixth grade, English (reading, writing, spelling, composition), arithmetic, geography, social studies (history and civics).

Music, art, physical training and elementary science will be taught as usual, but no grades will be recorded. The reports will merely indicate that the pupils have passed or failed in these subjects.

A check mark opposite one of these subjects means that the work in the subject has not been satisfactory.

In commenting upon the changes, Dr. Green said: "Pupils are sent to school to be educated and not merely to receive grades. Certainly a system of grading is necessary but it should not be so complex that it detracts from the primary purpose of the school."

Accident Deaths Show Big Increase

Motor Head Shows 283 Per Cent Increase In Last Ten Years

That automobile accidents deaths have increased 283 per cent in the last ten years, was the statement made this morning by Bernard N. Hanlon, secretary of the New Castle Motor club, who is also a member of the National Safety council.

"During the ten-year period from 1917 to 1926," Mr. Hanlon went on, "in the United States there were 20,021 persons killed and 55,771 persons injured through accidents at railroad crossings alone, or an average of 2,000 deaths and 5,570 injuries a year.

"As a result of automobile accidents on streets and highways of this country, there were 23,000 deaths last year as compared with 6,000 of ten years previous—an increase of 283 per cent. In other words, during 1926 there were more people killed through automobile accidents than were killed at grade crossings in the entire ten years previous.

"This seems to be another warning against the careless driver," warns Mr. Hanlon. "The man who drives carefully seldom has an accident, while everyone knows what happens to the careless driver. The figures do not lie."

Tells Of Hunting Game In Africa

Lions' Club Members Hear Interesting Talk On Big Game Hunting

Hunting big game in Rhodesia, Africa, was vividly described by Charles Richards at the noonday meeting of the Lions Club, held Tuesday, Dec. 6, at the Elks Club. Mr. Richards spent several years in Rhodesia and while there studied the habits and haunts of the game animals and has pictures of them. Stereopticon slides were used to illustrate his talk, the pictures being in natural colors. It was one of the most interesting discourses the Lions have listened to for many meetings and a time extension was granted the speaker to have him finish his talk. Mr. Richards is a singer and is at the First Christian church with Dr. J. R. Kellems, the evangelist there.

Cigars were furnished at the meeting by Attorney Alvah Shumaker, who recently joined the ranks of the benedicts.

Next week will be election and business meeting. No entertainment program for this meeting.

Witness Says He Was Previously Scared To Testify

(International News Service)

COURTHOUSE, MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 6—Harry F. Anderson, the aluminum ware salesman who reversed today his testimony for the state in the Lilliendahl-Beach murder trial told his story for the first time exclusively to International News service.

Outside the court room after definetely identifying Willis Beach as the man he saw at the murder scene Sanderson declared he was previously "scared" out of making the identification because a man sitting at the defense counsel table had been on a "party" with him in New York city.

It was also learned that Sanderson wanted to protect certain married friends who were members of the same party.

The salesman's story is officially set down in an affidavit held by Justice Luther Campbell. The affidavit was obtained through investigation by Captain Harry Walsh and Sergeant Richard Burke of the Jersey City police.

Silver Mining In Nevada

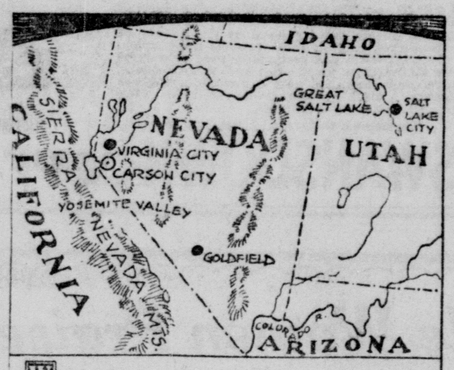

THE SETTLEMENT OF WHAT IS NOW THE STATE OF NEVADA BEGAN WITH THE DISCOVERY OF SILVER IN "THE WASHOE COUNTRY". THEN PART OF UTAH. IN 1859 A RICH DEPOSIT WAS STRUCK ON MT. DAVIDSON, 6,000 FEET ABOVE SEA LEVEL. SOON THE REGION WAS FILLED WITH MINERS.

THE VEINS OF ORE LED FAR DOWN BELOW THE SURFACE AND DEEP SHAFTS HAD TO BE DUG TO REACH THEM. MUCH SILVER WAS TAKEN OUT, BUT WATER DRAINED INTO THE SHAFTS FASTER THAN IT COULD BE PUMPED OUT, AND THE MINES WERE THREATENED WITH DESTRUCTION.

IN THIS EMERGENCY, A MAN NAMED SUTRO CAME FORWARD WITH A PLAN TO DIG A TUNNEL THROUGH THE MOUNTAIN, BELOW THE MINES, TO CARRY OFF THE WATER. THIS PROJECT WAS COMPLETELY SUCCESSFUL AND THE MINES WERE SAVED. MORE SETTLERS FLOCKED INTO NEVADA WHEN GOLD WAS FOUND NEAR VIRGINIA CITY.

WITHIN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS $300,000,000 WORTH OF SILVER AND GOLD HAD BEEN EXTRACTED FROM THE MINES OF NEVADA. IN 1861 NEVADA WAS GRANTED A TERRITORIAL GOVERNMENT AND IN 1864 IT WAS ADMITTED INTO THE UNION AS A STATE.

Tragedies In Brown Family Are Revealed

CONNEAUT, O., Dec. 6.—Additional tragic sorrow has come to the James Brown family in this city with the disclosure of the tragic death of Mrs. Mary Brown Richer and her two daughters, Talida and Elaine, in Amsterdam, N. Y. It will be recalled that James Brown is the father of Fred Brown, whose wife and child were so cruelly murdered in their home here last February. Hardly had this extreme sorrow passed when Mrs. Norton, another daughter, driving an automobile onto the Chestnut street crossing of the New York Central railroad, was struck by a fast mail train, severely injuring herself and two children being killed. Now comes the story of the death of Mrs. Richer and her two daughters by monoxide gas suffocation in their home in Amsterdam, N. Y., on June 9, 1926.

Mrs. Richer, together with her two daughters, left their home in this city some years ago and from that time have not been in communication with the family here. Efforts to locate them from time to time have failed until recently Mr. Brown appealed to Postmaster Kurtz of this city for assistance in the search. The postmaster began an effective investigation and from facts reported to him from postal officials in Amsterdam it was decided that Mr. Brown should visit Amsterdam, which he did. Following up the clues, Mr. Brown learned of the real tragedy and discovered the fate of his daughter and granddaughters.

Mrs. Richer is survived by her father, four brothers and one sister and by her son, who thus is left alone of the entire family. The boy makes his home here with his grandfather.

The change is to be made from busses to street cars, because of the fact that the certificate of public convenience under which the buesses are operated will expire at that time.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

NO FAILURE HERE

It is sometimes said that the church has failed or that it is failing now. So many things prosper that are contrary to the teachings and purposes of the church, and so many people of seeming importance take no interest in the organization. Some are thoughtlessly led to conclude that the church is playing a futile part in this world of affairs. It is, indeed, a thoughtless conclusion. The church, itself a storehouse of ideals, is everywhere apparent in the lives and institutions of the people. Every hospital, every Y. M. C. A. building, every orphan asylum, every chapter of the Red Cross is but the church in action—the church in the fields of men. Every institution designed to minister to the deeper needs of the people, every agency for making conditions under which we live better than they are, draws its sustenance from the church. Such institutions and such movements represent the ideals of the church turned into a stream of action.

Anyone who says the church has failed simply does not know life.

CHOOSING AND CHANGING

An old proverb says to be slow in choosing, but slower in changing. President Coolidge was slow in choosing, but he is equally slow in changing his choice.

LOVING AND HATING

One may love those dear to him and yet hate their faults. It is the proper attitude toward all — neighbors, friends or enemies. It is possible to think a great deal of another and yet be quite conscious of his faults. We ought not to hate anybody but it is proper to hate some things that people do. It is not necessary to fight evil doers in order to fight evil. Men will love in their hearts, smile on their faces, and an abundance of goodwill make the best fighters.

WORTH THE SACRIFICE

There is no greater legacy we can leave than a well educated family. There are thousands of boys and girls in schools all over this country whose present there means hard and heavy sacrifice on the part of their parents. It is not easy to get even a little money to send to John or Mary in college. But it is a great investment. Fathers and mothers who can bear the sacrifice will find it brings peace and satisfaction in the years to come. It is the supreme gift they can make their children—the gift of giving them a real start in life.

And when school days are over and young people are grown and they show no sense of appreciation of the sacrifice that has been made for them and no gratitude to their parents, then they are eternally "no good," no matter what jobs they are capable of holding.

Woman Dies Of Shock, But Boy Escapes Car

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Mabel Smith aged 29, screamed last night as she saw a young boy run into the street in the path of the car in which she was a passenger. She heard his body strike the pavement.

The driver stopped while beneath the car the boy sought to extricate himself. The driver believing the car had not hit him started forward. Mrs. Smith in the rear seat loked out to see a wheel pass over the boy's leg.

The woman collapsed and died almost instantly. The boy, a block behind got to his feet uninjured except for bruises and shook an angry fist at the car.

Americans don't appreciate what they have? Well, ankles were more thrilling when you saw fewer.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

Sick Headaches

Those miserable sick headaches, those mysterious dizzy and fainting spells are a grave symptom. Usually they indicate a poisoned condition of the stomach that may end in high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and heart failure. This toxic condition is the result of our modern habits of life which put too great a burden upon the vital organs, especially the liver, which then becomes sluggish and fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. It is generally recognized that the liver occasionally needs a little help. There is nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall has been found to be a great natural stimulant for the liver, restoring it to full activity. The genuine, pure ox gall is to be had, dainty and tasteless, in the form of Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents 10 drops of pure ox gall and costs less than 2c at good druggists. To be sure of getting the genuine, look for the name Dioxol and picture of ox's head on the package.

Disease Germs Held Immortal By Savant

Tests Prove Bacteria Live For Many Years Sealed In Vacuum

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6.—Disease cells dwelling in a vacuum may live for a great many years said Dr. J. Howard Brown associate professor of pathology in the Johns Hopkins Medical school today. At least science has preserved such groups indefinitely and has not discovered any period of years within which life ends.

Bacteria disease cells may be regarded practically immortal as the parent cells do not die.

The scientist made the statement when his attention was called to a cable from London announcing that a test tube containing disease germs which had been sealed in 1901 by Sir William Simpson an authority on tropical medicine had been opened a few days ago and the cells found to be alive.

It has been interesting to science said Dr. Brown to find the cells continue to live when denied the exygen which is generally regarded as necessary to life.

They hibernate he explained as a plant or an animal hibernates the activity reduced to minimum but life remaining in the creature.

CLUB WOMEN AT WORK

Conducted By The Woman's Club Of New Castle

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The millions of women affiliated with the General Federation of Women's clubs have a deep and active interest in the 70th congress which convened Dec. 5, as many legislative measures whose principles have the indorsement of the general federation, will be introduced.

Flood control legislation, nationwide in scope and adequate to prevent a recurrence of the Mississippi valley disaster, "the greatest peacetime calamity in the history of the United States," has the unanimous support of the federation. The comprehensive plan formulated by Senator Newlands was endorsed by the federation during the life time of the senator. At the biennial council meeting of the federation last May the federation reaffirmed its belief in the soundness of measures based on the Newlands plan.

The education bill, to establish a department of education with its secretary in the presient's cabinet, will continue to have the active support of the federation.

The waterways to the Atlantic from the Great Lakes through the Gulf of St. Lawrence has the hearty endorsement of the federation and an early enactment of the necessary treaty between the United States and Canada, which must precede th chipway, is being asked.

Home Economics.

The federation, through its department of the American home, which has been emphasized during the administration of Mrs. John D. Sherman, is particularly interested in the act for the cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics providing for "men and women extension agents in equitable proportion in the counties of the different states". Only with this clause will the Capper-Ketcham bill meet the demand of the federation.

The general federation is asking that in the taking of the next census, the designation "home maker" be given to every woman caring for home and family in the capacity of wife and mtoher, and that data concorning home equipment be collected and published in the census report.

The Cooper bill to regulate interstate commerce in prison-made goods, will expedite the abolition of the prison contract system of enabling the states to protect their public markets from prison products. State laws to this end having been declared unconstitutional, the federation during the next congress will give its full support to the proposed federal law.

The establishment in the public health service of a nurses' corps as the provision of a bill for the co-ordination of the public activities of the federal government, had indorsement at the council meeting of the federation last May.

Marriage Laws.

The uniform marriage and divorce law, provided in the Capper bill in order that it may be constitutional, must be preceded by an amendment to the constitution, such as called for in the Capper resolution. Senator Capper intends to reintroduce the amendment accompanied by a tentative bill.

Legislation which concerns the American Indian, will have the interest of federated club women, according to resolutions adopted at the last council meeting; in one of these the constitution, including the right to due process of law, peaceful assembly, religious liberty and an accounting of the acts of his guardian. Senate resolution 341 was endorsed as a step toward the ultimate solution of the Indian problem. Indorsement was given to the avowed policy of the secretary of the interior to place some of the responsibility for the conduct of Indian affairs in the states where the Indians reside.

With the flax-growing industry in the Williamatte Valley established on a scientific basis, Salem and several other Oregon cities expect to develop into centres of linen manufacture.

Famous 3 Legged Buck Is Bagged

MIFFLINTOWN, Pa., Dec. 6.—The famous three-legged buck of Enholm was bagged by Lynn Keidy, of Mifflintown. The kill was made shortly after dawn.

The buck lost one leg last year, apparently the result of a poor shot by some hunter. Workmen at the Pennsylvania railroad coaling station, at Enholm, have reported seeing the buck running on three legs. To date four deer have been bagged in this section.

Basketball Outlook At Senior High Bright

Eight Veterans From Last Year Due To Report

W. P. I. A. L. Champions Of 1926-27 About Ready To Resume Floor Activity

PAUL REIDER IS CAPTAIN OF TEAM

With football activities silenced until the fall of 1928, the New Castle High school athletes will now turn their attention to the popular winter pastime known as basketball.

Last winter it will be remembered that the New Castle High floor stars carried through to the western Pennsylvania interscholastic athletic league championship by virtue of capturing the honors in section IV and also romping through the opposition offered at the annual Pittsburgh tournament staged at the Pitt gym. Later the locals went to Penn State College for the state finals, and after winning from Phillipsburg in the first round, were eliminated by Sharon High.

The 1927-28 season finds the New Castle High team with practically the same line-up that carried them to the championship. Paul Reider, the flashy forward of last year, is captain of the team this season and is being relied upon to be much improved over his stellar form as a member of the title winning combination. Others who will be on hand this year and who were members of the championship team are: Tony Ostrosky, one of the best defensive guards in the W. P. I. A. L. last year; Arthur Sillman, a mighty good guard; Glenn Thomas, "Tippy" Richards and Clark McClelland, Kulich and Johnson, all used in the role of substitutes last year.

McGrath-Franklin Missing

The only two lost by graduation were Bruce Franklin, a forward, and Walter "Baldy" McGrath, captain and center. Franklin and McGrath will be sorely missed by the locals when it comes time to make up the quintet, but New Castle is well fortified with reserve strength.

The fact stands out like a sore thumb that New Castle High never faced a basketball season with such likely looking prospects. In addition to the men named above, who have served one season with the locals, there are Paul Cuba and Bruce Alexander to be reckoned with, and also Earl Turk. It is understood that both Cuba and Alexander have their eyes glued on the vacant center job this year and that the fight for this important post is going to be quite interesting. Both boys are tall and rangy and said to possess plenty of floor cunning.

New Castle High this year has been cast in section III, along with Beaver Falls, New Brighton, Ellwood City, Zelienople, Evans City, Butler and Mars. This should be a fast circuit, as Beaver Falls, New Brighton and Butler always have good teams.

The high school floor season is due to start here January 6, and Evans City High will be opponents.

The last important tennis tournament of 1927 will be the national competitions for the junior and boys' indoor championships, to be held in New York City during Christmas week.

Tunney defended boxing as a professional sport and said he believed it had improved.

SORDS POINTS

They Shall Not Pass!---And They Don't

"They shall not pass!"

The immortal yodel of the French soldiers during the big blowup of 1914 when they found Kaiser Bill's best battlers headed for Verdun and Paris, has been adopted by Lorne Chabot, star goalie of the New York Rangers, famous hockey team.

"They shall not pass!" says Lorne as he skates to his post and puts his broad back to the Ranger goal. You bet they shan't!" And they don't.

Chabot, a dark-haired grim young Frenchman, is one of the star hockey players of the professional ice leagues. Chabot is a young player, but he has come through swimmingly in his early tests this season.

In a recent game with the other Manhattan pro hockey outfit, the New York Americans, Chabot showed what stuff he was made of. In the first period Normie Himes, Americans' center sub, sent a shot at the Ranger goalie.

Chabot made a desperate effort to block the puck and did but it bounded off his pads and sailed behind him for the first marker. But that was the last score the Americans made and the Rangers nipped the enemy goal twice to win.

Chabot has quite a reputation as a fighter and has a brother who is one of the outstanding lightweights of Canada.

Paper Has Account Of Ball Game Here Half Century Ago

A saga of the old Neshannocks, one of the most famous baseball clubs in the Shenango valley—a club that sent several players to the big leagues—was brought into the News office by Ed Bigley, who was a member of that club. The paper, an issue of Friday, April 20, 1906, is the property of R. H. Whaley, another member of the team.

The game which is graphically described—play by play—in two columns and one half of rather small type, was played between the New Castle Neshannocks and the Oil City Senecas back in 1874.

"It has been the desire of our citizens," the paper states, "to have a club come here that would either beat our boys or hold them level. At last, with the recklessness of despair, the citizens raised $75 and offered it to the famous Seneca club of Oil City—long known as the greatest baseball club in this part of the state—to play the Neshannock of this city for the championship of western Pennsylvania on July 30. The Senecas arrived on the 11:55 a. m. northern train and after dinner were escorted to the grounds. This contest, having been the topic of conversation in all the hotels, stores, homes and manufacturing places of this city for the past three weeks, there was an immense crowd of spectators present—in all probability 4,000 people. The Senecas won the toss and sent Neshannocks to the bat."

And then is described the battle of Greek and Greek—the terrible slashing attack of the Neshannocks, which sent the Senecas home with a 29-5 defeat hanging to them.

Among the peculiar things about the account is the method of giving the box score.

"Following is the score:"

Neshannock	O.	1st base R.	hits

TONI CANZONERI

Here we have the youthful dancing, jabbing Italian, Tony Canzoneri, one of the outstanding claimants for the world's featherweight title. Tony forced his way into the foreground by virtue of his victory over the glamorous Johnny Dundee, and the other night put on a whirlwind finish to win the decision over Ignacio Fernandez, the Filipino flash who was substituting for Bud Taylor when the latter hurt his hand in training.

Canzoneri is a clever and foxy boxer, but his ability does not stop there. He can step out and fight like a fool if the occasion demands.

Fculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner today announced that the New Castle High School football banquet, scheduled for The Castleton on Thursday night of this week, had been postponed until Thursday night, December 15.

It is understood that quite a fine program is being arranged for the occasion following the banquet.

Floor Notes

The First Baptist basketball team will hold a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

The Rick-Overland team will travel to Columbiana, O., tonight to battle the fast Columbiana Boosters. The members of the team are asked to report at 5:45 o'clock at the Rick-Overland company on North Shenango street.

Risko And Scott Battle Tonight At Cleveland, O.

Johnny Risko, Hard Punching Cleveland Heavyweight, Favored To Win

BERLENBACH TO MEET DELANEY

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Boxing, enjoying such poor health here that Mr. Rickard can be induced to leap with sounds of glad glee upon the $20,000 offered him by Leo P. Flynn and Jimmy Johnston for a night's lease of the Garden, once more is going west for its action, starting in Cleveland tomorrow night. This occasion will be the ten round meeting between Philip Falldown Scott, of the British Empire, no less, and Johnny Risko, the gent with the corrugated anatomy, the event being of national interest for several reasons.

One of these is that Scott, like Paulino, seemingly can die a lot of competitive deaths without affecting his status in the so-called heavyweight elimination tourney. Another reason for the national concern in this occasion centers around the fact that everybody is beginning to wonder just what Risko has to do to get a nod from those who are sponsoring the tourney in question.

A short time ago, he beat Jack Delaney. Yet Delaney is in and Risko is out. John also gave Paulino a veneering with the same result. Paulino belongs and John doesn't. Apparently, a trial horse is an animal which scores its victories only in the nature of a vast mistake. This condition, of course, can be rectified only by regarding the losers as the winners and forgetting the entire incident with all due haste.

Tonight after the Cleveland affair, the scene will shift to Chicago for a renewal of the Berlenbach-Delaney series, this one being interesting largely because of the men involved probably are the only ones in the country who are not altogether aware of the fact that they have become passe. Still, any Berlenbach-Delaney fight is worth a second look and Chicago again has outscored New York by getting it.

Asheville is looking forward to 1928 as a banner year for golf, more than a score of tournaments being already scheduled for the North Carolina resort.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

Walter Hagen has been advised that he has been named captain of the 1928 American professional golf team by the directors of the Professional Golfers association of America. If selections can be made to represent America the team will play in Great Britain.

A bronze memorial tablet to Ross Young, former right fielder of the Giants, who died recently at San Antonio, will be imbedded in right field wall at the Polo Grounds. A memorial tablet was erected in honor sometime ago to Eddie Grant, World war hero.

George Godfrey, the black menace, continued his reign of terror last night by knocking out Andres de Roso, Italy, after 22 minutes of fighting in the second round at Canton. Godfrey is bad medicine, in fact the 'black bottle' to the heavyweights.

California Team Prepares For Hard Battle With Penn.

Parallel Cases — By Feg Murray

There were two games in the recent football season that were as alike as two peas, as far as the closing moments went, and, in case that the interesting similarity has gone unnoticed, please let me retell what happened. One of the games was played in the stadium at Palo Alto, Cal., on October 15, between Stanford and the University of Southern California, and the other at Cartier field, South Bend, Ind., on November 5, between Notre Dame and Minnesota. The fact that both games ended in tie scores is nothing unusual, but when you discover that in each contest the tie was brought about in the final minute of play by a successful pass thrown by a big fullback who was noted for his ability to plow through the line like a dreadnaught, why it begins to look like a coincidence. And when you note that both of these giant line-crushers who saved their team from defeat with a few seconds to go are named Herb, why the thing begins to get serious!

Herb Joesting, the famous battering-ram of Minnesota, is well known to every football fan. Herb Fleishhacker, who understudies "Biff" Hoffman as fullback at Stanford, is not so well known, but may be before next season is over. Anyway, both Herbs hit the line with tremendous force, and Fleishhacker, though not as fast as Joesting, weighs close to 215 pounds and is just as deadly as a touchdown threat, when a few yards are needed and the regulars on both sides are tiring, as the famous Minnesota Nordic.

In the Stanford-U. S. C. game "Pop" Warner stuck in his Herb with only a couple of minutes to play. The big fellow rammed his way through the line on seven consecutive plays and then caught the Trojans completely by surprise by throwing a little southpaw pass to Vincenti, the end, who scored the tying points. In the Minnesota-Notre Dame game, the Gophers got the ball on a last-minute fumble by the Irish, and Joesting shot a pass to Walsh, who caught it just over the goal line for a touchdown.

Ellwood Lad Is Lucky To Win

Inexperienced Second Brings Gemas Technical Knockout

ROCCO HAS BEST OF BRIEF FIGHT

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—Emmett Rocco of Ellwood City, Pa., scored a technical knockout over George Gemas of Philadelphia in the fifth of a ten round bout last night.

Gemas was in the midst of a rally and had Rocco bewildered from a right to the face which puffed his optic like an egg and it was a hair-brained second who threw in the towel.

The action was surprising as Gemas was on his feet fighting like a demon and was far from the Gemas of the first four rounds who had taken a beating from Rocco.

Gemas and Rocco were both blood-spattered, Gemas as early as the second round when a blow to the eye, opened his skin above his left eye and blood poured down over his face.

Don't Know Business.

The fans did not like the action of Young Jack O'Brien, former fighter, now Gemas manager and goes far to prove the contention that not all fighters know their onions as chief seconds.

For Rocco it must be said that he showed improvement over his appearance at McKeesport a year ago and he showed up good with an upright stand and right body smashes that had Gemas going.

The Ellwood heavyweight got over some powerful rights in the second that had the Philadelphia lad weak and a hopelessly beaten fighter when he went to his corner at the close of the fourth round.

In the fifth Gemas came out like a champion and caught the Italian with a smash on the left side of the face and the punch closed his eye. It also wobbled Emmett and he groped around the ring.

As Rocco backed against the ropes from the attack the towel came sailing into the ring and a game fellow who apparently had started to turn the tide of battle lost by his manager's action.

Boyle Holds Up Fighters Purses

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, today was credited with a technical knockout over George Gemmas, of Philadelphia and Connellsville, after their fight was stopped in the fifth round. Boxing Commissioner Harvey Boyle ordered the purses held pending an investigation.

Rocco won almost all the way. At the end Gemmas was so badly bruised and cut he could hardly stand. His left eye was swollen so badly, sport writers expressed an opinion the boxing commissioner would have stopped the bout at the end of the fifth, had not Philadelphia Jack O'Brien tossed in the towel.

The "World's Best Brakes"

—you'll find them on the WOLVERINE

Four-wheel, hydraulic, internal, two-shoe brakes are regular equipment on the Reo Wolverine as they are on the Reo Flying Cloud. There is no better brake; automotive engineers who know and test all kinds, will tell you this.

You can prove it for yourself. Try a Reo Wolverine—stop it at any speed—on any road. Note how quickly and how smoothly you stop, without jar or discomfort to passengers, without strain on the car.

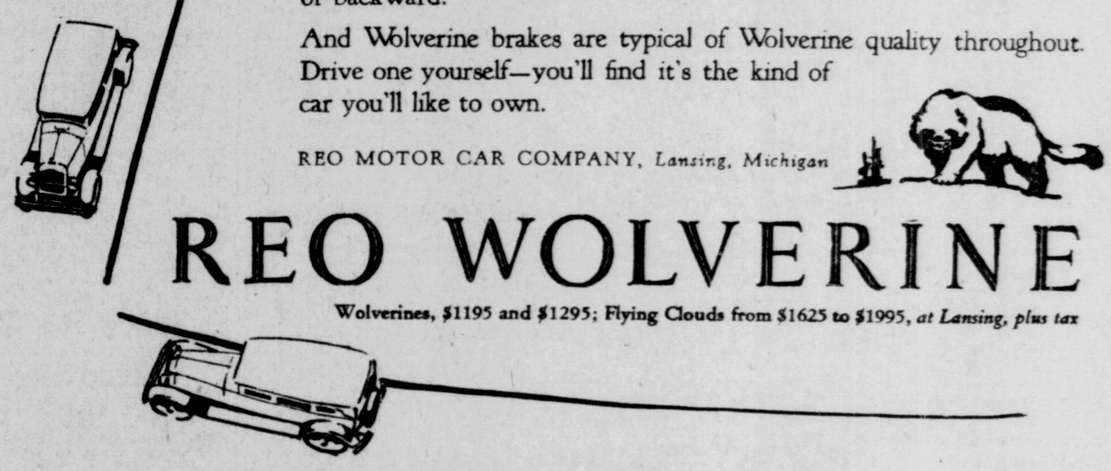

Stop it on a slippery pavement—you can't skid a Wolverine with these brakes.

Note particularly how accessible the brake pedal is. You don't have to lift your foot to reach it, you don't have to push the pedal down whole inches before the brakes begin to take hold.

Wolverine brakes will continue to be just as effective after thousands and thousands of miles as they are the day you try them first. The fact that they are hydraulic obviates the necessity for equalizing adjustments—they're always ready to work. The fact that they are "internal-expanding" means that the brake drum and the brake shoes are protected from water and dirt. The fact that they are "two-shoe" brakes makes them equally effective whether the car is going forward or backward.

And Wolverine brakes are typical of Wolverine quality throughout. Drive one yourself—you'll find it's the kind of car you'll like to own.

Shenango Gridders Are Defeated By New Castle Works

Grid Game Between Tin Mill Teams At Franklin Field Ends 14 To 0

In a fast grid game played last Saturday afternoon at Ben Franklin field the New Castle Works football team defeated the Shenango Works combination by a score of 14 to 0.

At the very outset of the game it was apparent that the New Castle Works had a brilliant offensive drive, and they proved it by rushing the ball to the 40-yard line, and then throwing forward passes with reckless abandon until they had scored their initial touchdown. It was near the end of the second quarter that the New Castle Works tallied their second and final touchdown.

In the second half the Shenango goal-line was threatened time after time, but the New Castle Works team could not puncture the goal-line, Fletcher, White and Pink played a whale of a defensive game for the winners. It was the final game of the year for both teams unless some team challenges the claim of the New Castle Works to the city industrial championship. The New Castle Works won six and lost one game this year.

The summary:

New Castle 14.		Shenango 0.
E. Marton	L. E.	Dudek
Pink	L. T.	Bardo
Lowery	L. G.	Ward
Fletcher	C.	Jones
Bagshaw	R. G.	Fowler
White	R. T.	Dodds
Cowmeadow	R. E.	Brooks
Neyman	Q. B.	McCracken
Morris	L. H.	Keely
Henry	R. H.	Wheale
Shiek	F. B.	E. Arrow

Subs—New Castle Works: Young for Martin, Booth for Lowrey, V. Martin for Booth, Buckley for Young. Shenango Works: Cutler for E. Arrow, Reider for Ward, A. Arrow for Wheale. Touchdowns— Cowmeadow, Newman. Points After Touchdown—T. D. White, two on end runs. Referee—Piffer. Umpire — Altman. Head Linesman — Michaels. Time of Quarters — 12 minutes.

Stanford Team Limbers Up For Panther Battle

(International News Service)

STANFORD, Cal., Dec. 6. — The Cardinals of Stanford today were limbering up preparatory to going into hard training for their contest with the Pittsburgh Panthers at Pasadena, on Jan. 2.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

STILL ROAMING, Dec. 6.—And find the southwest heads over heels in the discussion of all-American football selections.

George Schepps, well-known Dallas business man and sportsman, who witnessed the big intersectional battle between Notre Dame and Southern California, has expressed the feeling of grid fans in these parts that one or two of the outstanding elevens hereabouts might well match strength with either of the teams mentioned or any of the other nationally known teams which have been as of national championship caliber.

Writing his version of the game between Rockne's men and the Trojans, Schepps says:

"I tried to figure out in my own mind what I had seen in this game that I had not witnessed in the Southwestern conference games (the conference which includes the Texas Aggies, Southern Methodists and other southwestern teams), and you can believe me when I say I saw nothing in Drury or Flanagan. I saw two good ball carriers, but not any better than Redman, Hume, Gerald Mann or Joel Hunt. I saw no field generalship such as Mann has displayed all year. Of the seven or eight ends who participated in the game, none could come close to equaling the offensive and defensive play of "Rags" Matthews. The only thing that they showed me was two good charging lines and some nice interference; two capable punters in Drury and Dahman. Summing up the whole game, I wish that S. M. U. (Southern Methodist university could have caught either club on the days that they (S. M. U.) played Missouri or T. C. U. (Texas Christian university), and there is no doubt in my mind that they could have won by two or more touchdowns.

"If the Aggies (Texas A. & M.) had played California or Notre Dame at Kyle field (home of Texas A. & M.) the day they beat the Mustags (S. M. U.) so badly, the Southwestern conference would have been glorified in the eyes of middle western and eastern football fans forever."

Now, granted that Schepps is an ardent supporter of Texas football, his opinions are taken seriously hereabouts, because of his knowledge of the game and his familiarity with the major teams of the country and their general play and standards.

There is a concerted movement on foot in the southwest, as I write, to go out and get for intersectional games—on the Pacific coast and in the south and middle west—in the future, to give the southwestern teams a chance to prove their assertions.

It is unfortunate that neither Hunt nor Mann had a chance to pit their skill against the nationally-known teams this season.

Word that Eddie Collins, once a member of Connie Mack's $100,000 infield and now a fading veteran, is to become assistant to Connie Mack is of interest to baseball fans all over the country. And the move on Connie's part prompts a query as to what is to become of Kid Gleason.

The Kid was named assistant to Mr. McGillicuddy a year ago—and turned loose on Connie's team to put some pep and ginger in it.

Gleason did his best. He's a fighter of the old school himself, a master of sarcasm, a keen judge of human nature, and a hard task master when he feels the need of wielding the whip. He failed to get Connie's team into a fighting mood—at least peeved enough to go out and win the pennant. This despite the presence of Cobb, Collins et al for reserve strength.

Now Collins is apparently shifted from the playing ranks to the board of strategy. Is Gleason to remain or will another season find the white-haired gent in a new post?

Inquired at Little Rock, Ark., regarding a very good friend of mine, whose whereabouts had become a mystery. Was informed that he probably had left town as he had been like the Arkansas tramp for some time.

Being an inquisitive soul I inquired as to the said Arkansas tramp's status.

"All he has to do when he gets ready to move is to put on his hat, put out the fire and call his dog."

Which, after all, may be an ideal position for anyone with the wanderlust. Right now I'm longing for the family radio.

Track Coach

R. X. GRAHAM

Westminster's track and cross country coach, in his first year of college coaching, has been fortunate in having an exceptional group of distance men available so that the winning of the Tri-State Conference championship in cross country was comparatively simple.

In spring track, however, there will be no easy sailing, for Allegheny, Grove City, Carnegie Tech and Geneva, all strong in track, are to be met in addition to the annual Conference meet at Beaver Falls.

Graham, a member of the track squad and captain of the 1024 cross country team at Colgate University, is instructor in English and journalism at Westminster.

Vince Dundee To Fight Tonight

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 6.—Vince Dundee, brother of Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, will attempt to gain more fistic honors for the Dundee family here tonight. Young Dundee will fight Baby Joe Gans, San Diego scrapper, in a ten round bout. They will meet as junior welterweights.

Of the 30 Army-Navy football games the Cadets have won 15 and the Midshipmen 12, while three have resulted in ties.

The Roumanians are descendants of the Romans, who conquered and occupied a portion of the territory now called Roumania.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Industrial stocks moved through an extremely narrow range of prices in a quiet and featureless market today. Continuance of the 4½ per cent money market and a desire to await publication of the President's message to Congress held up the speculative buying of stock. On the other hand, there was not much selling pressure on the list, and most sections of the market marked time in the first period.

Oil stocks made a better showing in this period, both Atlantic Refining and Pan-American scoring slight recoveries. Mack Trucks led the motors, with a 3½ point advance to 112½; Goodrich in the accessory list, jumped 5 points to 92 in active trading. Lehigh Valley led a moderate advance in the rails, and gained nearly 2 points at 105. Independent steels were firm, with Youngstown up 1½ points and Republic up 1.

Hear Seventh Ward Appeals

Several Important Cases Are Heard By City Board Of Appeals

Representatives of the Lehigh Rubber company which owns a plant in the Seventh ward, Monday appealed to city council, sitting as a board of appeals and tax revision for a reduction of assessment on their ground and buildings.

The company owns land worth $12,930 and buildings worth $168,930. The plant is not operating and the only machinery in the plant is a crane. Council will consider the case later.

Most of the appeals concerned occupational taxes. The most important property appeals were made by:

Roy C. Miller, 112 Liberty; two lots, $16,540. The assessment is less than previous. Miller maintained that the ground has been assessed more per foot front and it will be compared with the Wettich and Raney fronts.

St. Margaret's Mutual Society, 103 South Liberty; one lot, $1,500, brick building, $10,660. Representatives claim the assessment too high and declare they would sell for $3,500.

W. H. Chambers, 226 North Liberty; lot $9,000; frame building, $2,600; frame building, $2,800 and barn, $80. It was claimed the assessments are excessive.

Home Trust company, lot $480. It was said they would sell for $150 and the assessment is considered too high.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Just for the time, deer stories have the center of the stage. Fish stories, baseball stories and radio stories are pushed into the background and the deer hunters get all the attention.

Here's one that sounds like a good one. Wilbur Vance of the seventh ward got a buck up near St. Marys, Pa., with 12 points. Now that in itself is a good story but the surrounding circumstances are better. His father, Orin Vance, was with him and he failed to get a deer because he was afraid of getting two.

His chance for one of the animals came when eight of them came out of the forest near St. Marys together. But they were so close together that Mr. Vance was afraid that if he shot one, the bullet would go through and kill another one. One deer is the limit, so he chose to take no chances.

The woods must be full of deer this fall. Haven't heard of many Lawrence county hunters going up to Center county but that county has more deer than it has cows. Happened to be driving between Lewistown and State College a couple of times this spring. On one evening, near a little placec allied Potters Mills, we passed three herd of deer, the last one having 15 or 20 in it. They were grazing much like cows and didn't even bother to look up at the automobile headlights.

Sometimes names can't be mentioned. This is one of those times. A young mother on the North Hill asked her little daughter recently what she wanted Santa Claus to bring her for Christmas. Rather boredly, the young miss, age about 8 or 9, said: "Mother, why do you try to pull that old stuff all the time?"

Did a little roaming round, or rather sitting up, with the school board last night. The remarkable part of it was that the board adjourned before midnight. Just an organization meeting, however, and the members promised to do better, or worse, in the regular meeting.

A fine argument developed last night in Looey Zieves, on the south side. Now when you first see the statement you may make a snap decision, but thing it over before you express yourself.

The statement was made that an Indian who formerly live in this city was registered to vote, without paying any taxes. The statement was challenged on the grounds that Indians were not allowed to vote. A check-up followed which proved that in the case at issue, the Indian had voted here, and without the payment of any taxes, on the grounds that he was an Indian and a ward of the government.

Thus far today I have two opinions in the matter. One is that the Indian is not allowed to vote at all, and the other is that he can be registered without paying any taxes.

Now don't get the idea that any of the above carries any opinion of the colyum conductor. It doesn't, but what is your answer? Can an Indian vote, and without paying taxes?
